NATO ACCEPTS U. S. OFFER

WOMAN SQUIRE REAPPOINTED — Mrs. Evelyn Murphy was reappointed yesterday by Gov. George M. Leader as justice of the peace in Speers Borough until Jan. 1960. Mrs. Murphy was sworn in last August following the death of her husband, long-time squire in Speers. A mother of five, Mrs. Murphy has found that her new duties do not interfere with rearing a family.

Mrs. Evelyn Murphy Reappointed as Squire

Gov. George M. Leader yesterday reappointed Mrs. Evelyn F. Murphy as justice of the peace for Speers Borough until January 1960.

Mrs. Murphy has held the office since last August when she filled the post left vacant by the death of her husband.

"I'm still kind of new at the work, but I did some of my husband's clerical jobs during his 12 years in office," she said. "I got some experience that way."

Actually Mrs. Murphy has no worry over sticky legal problems. Her son, Austin J. Murphy Jr., is an assistant district attorney for Washington County.

Is Mother First

Mrs. Murphy, who lives in a modest home at 631 Speers Ave., still regards herself as a mother first. At home with her is six-year-old Dennis. Her other four children are married.

Her duties as a squire include taking care of motor vehicle violations, disorderly conduct cases, performing marriages and issuing licenses.

According to Mrs. Murphy, Dennis plans to follow in her footsteps when he grows up.

"He had been waiting to be an attorney," she laughed. "But I took him to the courthouse for the swearing-in ceremonies and now he wants to be a justice of the peace."

Entry blanks may be obtained at the Chamber office or at the West Penn Power Co. office, co-sponsors of the 1957 contest.

Three prizes will be awarded in each of the five neighborhood divisions in the city. Considered as divisions will be the first, second, third and fourth wards and the Park Plan area.

A grand prize of a traditional post light for lawn use will be awarded to the city's best entry. Last year, the grand prize winner was John Pallini, 30 Montraver St.

Hoffa Trial May Go to Jury; Acquittal Hinted

NEW YORK (UP)—The federal wiretap conspiracy trial of James R. Hoffa was expected to go to the jury today with indications the fiery little teamster official may be acquitted.

In its summation to the jury Tuesday the government admitted its star witness may have been in error when he placed Hoffa at the Detroit teamster headquarters on July 9, 1953.

The defense had presented a string of witnesses who testified that Hoffa was in Seattle, Wash., attending a teamster convention and banquet from July 6 to July 10.

A strong point in the government's case, before the defense rebuttal, was the testimony of Rudolph Doelicke. He told the jury Hoffa was in Detroit on July 9 to receive instructions on the use of wire tap equipment Hoffa had ordered installed.

Hoffa, president-elect of the giant Teamster's Union, along with Owen Brennan, president of Detroit Local 337 and Bernard Spindel, a professional wiretapper, are on trial in federal court charged with illegally tapping the telephones of the Detroit office of the Teamster's Union.

Pittsburgh Steel To Move Up Payday

Production and salaried employes at the Monessen plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co. will be paid a day earlier next week.

A company spokesman said the regular pay will be distributed on Monday rather than Tuesday.

"The pay day has been advanced as a courtesy to our employes, giving them an additional day for Christmas shopping," the spokesman said.

Second Atlas Missile Prepared for Firing; May Come This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) — Another intercontinental Atlas missile was readied today for firing as soon as mechanical brains finish their computations on Tuesday's first successful ICBM launching.

Some sources said the Air Force missile, now standing in its launching tower, would be fired before the week is out. Others said at least a week will be required to assemble all the data from Tuesday's shoot and make the necessary adjustments for the second firing.

The presence here of Maj. Gen. John A. Medaris, commander of the Army ballistic missile agency at Huntsville, Ala., and Dr. Wehrner Von Braun, technical director, brought increased reports that a Jupiter intermediate range missile might be fired some time today.

Third Try For Atlas

The big talk was still about the Atlas which Tuesday completed a "limited range test of several hundred miles." Two previous attempts to fire this U.S. entry in the long-range missile race had ended in destruction of the Atlases a few thousand feet above the launching stand.

At a press conference after the spectacular shoot, Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of Patrick AFB and military operations at the test center, and engineers tried to emphasize that "busts" do not mean a launching was unsuccessful. They said previous tests should be considered "95 per cent successful" because of the information gained. As they spoke, about 50 technicians had already started processing data recorded electronically during the Atlas shoot.

Information Extensive

The job would go on without letup for 80 hours. Yates said over "one-quarter of a million individual data points" were the scientific objectives in the launching "and we'll probably get them all."

B. G. Macnab, operations manager at the cape for Convair Corp., prime contractor for the Atlas, said the complex countdown leading to the launching went off without a serious hitch. He described a scene of elation in the blockhouse after the big bird flew successfully.

The firing of the first ICBM gave this nation new strength in the rocket race with Russia, a firmer footing in the Paris NATO talks, and a third potential satellite carrier.

The successful Atlas launching came on the 54th anniversary of the Wright brothers' first airplane flight.

Atomic Power Plant Produces Electricity Today

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (UP)—The Shippingport atomic power plant, first in the nation designed solely for commercial use, started production of electricity by nuclear fission today, Duquesne Light Co. announced.

At full power, the reactor plant, situated in this little Ohio Valley community about 25 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, can produce a minimum of 60,000 kilowatts, enough power to light 150,000 homes in the greater Pittsburgh area.

Round-the-clock preparations for placing the plant into operations were completed Tuesday. First nuclear - produced electricity for commercial use began surging through Duquesne Light power lines this morning.

Westinghouse Electric Corp., under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission, designed and constructed the nuclear portion of the plant, and designed and built for Duquesne Light the turbine-generator.

Actual fissioning in the nuclear reactor started just 15 years to the day that Enrico Fermi first demonstrated a self-sustaining, nuclear chain reaction at the University of Chicago.

The tremendous heat generated during atomic fission brings water to "superhot" temperatures. This water produces the steam to spin turbine generators and produce the electric power going to Duquesne Light's commercial customers.

Four years effort and 110-million dollars went into the plant.

Classes were held as usual this morning.

Shooting of Donora Hunter Is Investigated

Game Commission officials said today they are investigating the mysterious shooting of a Donora hunter near Ligonier on Monday.

The hunter, Vincent Morabito, 54, of 435 Fifth St., was wounded by a stray bullet moments after he bagged a doe in the Linn Run Division of the Forbes Forest.

Morabito told game officials he was shot as he stooped over his catch. He said he saw a group of hunters in the district and called to them, but they disappeared.

The Donoran was found some time later by three hunters from Derry Twp., who made a litter from poles and coats and carried him to his car.

The victim was admitted to McGinnis Hospital in Ligonier at 1:15 p.m. on Monday. His condition today was described as satisfactory.

Authorities said the bullet, apparently a stray, entered Morabito's back.

Morabito shot the doe shortly after the start of the special doe season. At the time, he had become separated from his companions John Takach and Michael Stimak, both of Donora, and John Sabol, of Clairton. They accompanied him to the hospital after Morabito had been carried to his car.

Game officials said their investigation has already turned up a report by a Delmont farmer who said he saw an unidentified man kill a doe and two fawns in succession as they stood in a field. The man then left all of them lie where they dropped, the farmer said.

Another farmer in the area told Game Commission authorities that one of his cows was shot through the left rear leg as it stood in a barn on Monday.

MOBILIZATION CALL — President Eisenhower (left) listens over earphones to a speech by Luxembourg's President Joseph Bech (right) along with Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary-general. In his keynote address, the President urged the NATO powers to mobilize to thwart Russia's dream of world domination. He said "the forces arrayed against us are . . . not irresistible."

Ike, Dulles Planning Report to the Nation

PARIS (UP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles probably will make a television and radio report to the American people shortly after they return to the United States from the NATO Council meeting here, it was announced today.

The council will wind up its summit meetings Thursday and the President will take off for Washington at 6 p.m. (noon e.s.t.) Thursday, arriving early Friday morning, possibly by 6:30 a.m. e.s.t.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty told reporters "considerable thought is being given" to an Eisenhower-Dulles report to the nation but it would not come before early next week.

The last such Eisenhower-Dulles report to the American people concerned U.S. policy in the Middle East and came at the time of the Suez Canal crisis.

Another Full Day

The President's plane, Columbine III, was expected to make a refueling stop at the Keflavik Air Force Base in Iceland on the return trip.

The President appro. ched the conclusion of the NATO summit meeting with sustained energy and interest. On top of Tuesday's busy schedule, he planned another full day.

He met for nearly an hour at 9:30 this morning with Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis and then had a conference with Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes.

Hagerty told reporters he did not yet know the President's Christmas plans beyond the fact that he will light the national Christmas tree on the Ellipse south of the White House grounds at 5 p.m. e.s.t. next Monday.

Hagerty said the President was "feeling fine" again today and enjoyed the state dinner given by President Rene Coty of France Tuesday night.

School Bus Hit By Train; 44 Escape Death

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (UP)—Forty-four students narrowly escaped death Tuesday when a freight train smashed into their school bus and pushed it 400 feet, coming to a stop just short of a steep embankment overlooking the Susquehanna River.

"It was a miracle the bus didn't topple into the river," a state trooper said. "If it had, all the kids would have been killed."

Seven teen - agers were injured, none seriously, in the accident 18 miles north of here at the Deer Creek Rd. crossing on Legislative Route 1706.

Detained at Clearfield Hospital were Larry Moore, 14; his brother, Richard, 15, and their cousins, Helen, 14, and Margaret Moore, 16, all of Karthaus, and Sally Wooster, 15, Pottersdale.

Detained at Phillipsburg Hospital were Joan Moore, 15, and Phyllis Askey, 16, also of Karthaus.

Hospital officials said the youngsters probably would be released later today or Friday.

The students were aboard the bus when it was struck broadside by a New York Central 150 - car freight train.

The bus driver, Harry Hanson, 55, Lecontes Mills, told state police he stopped at the crossing but neither saw nor heard the train approaching. He said, however, that the bus windows were fogged and that the students were singing.

W. A. Lansberry of Clearfield was the engineer of the train.

Missile Bases, Atom Stockpiles Given Approval

PARIS (UP) — America's NATO allies accepted today the U. S. offer of nuclear stockpiles and medium range missiles for the defense of Western Europe, authoritative conference sources disclosed.

Details of the actual stockpiling or the setting up of missile bases are to be worked out later in bilateral negotiations between the United States and its European allies.

The agreements involving each individual country will be based on recommendations by American Gen. Lauris M. Norstad, the Allied supreme commander, as to the best sites for nuclear stockpiles and missile bases.

These missile bases would not be operational for at least a year or 18 months, since it will take that long to get them ready and stock the missiles.

The agreement in principle reached at a meeting of NATO foreign and defense ministers followed closely the announcement of the successful firing of the first U.S. intercontinental ballistics missile.

Express "Reservations"

Although there was no final firm commitment by any individual country, all 15 NATO nations agreed on the program. It will be included in the final communique of the historic summit conference as a unanimous decision, the sources said.

Several nations expressed "reservations" but these will not be reflected in the official announcement.

The agreement came as the NATO conference, spurred by America's Atlas missile success, headed into the final stage of its four-day Paris meeting.

Also high on the program was the pooling of Allied scientific knowledge and know how under a "science czar" who will help coordinate NATO scientific and technological advances to meet the challenge of the latest Soviet advances.

The agreement also is to recommend some approach to the Soviets, eventually leading to East-West talks.

An authoritative conference source said the missile agreement will state that the alliance thanks the United States for its offer of nuclear stockpiles and modern weapons and approves their inclusion in NATO's European defense shield.

Reaffirm NATO Aims

The sources said the declaration will reaffirm the aims and purposes of NATO, the need for strengthening the alliance, the principle of interdependence, and a reaffirmation of the NATO stand that an attack against one nation is an attack against all.

The foreign and defense ministers met for three hours this morning and called another session for this afternoon. The summit conference itself was postponed from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. (noon e.s.t.) when it will receive the report.

Successful firing of an Atlas ICBM in Florida also gave added authority to the U.S. proposal to establish European bases for intermediate range ballistic missiles to defend against possible Russian

Six parcels of property in North Belle Vernon and one in Rostraver Twp. have been purchased by an investor for commercial development.

According to the Westmoreland County Recorder of Deeds office, the properties have been purchased by Thomas Jr. and Margaret O. Malpass, Rostraver Twp.

Malpass, a banker, confirmed today that the land was secured as the site of a possible commercial development. However he declined to discuss the transaction further, except to state that his intentions had been "misunderstood" in some quarters.

All purchase prices were listed as $1. The property is located in the general area of a proposed new traffic cloverleaf which will link North Belle Vernon with Relocated Route 31.

Group Maps Plans to Block Big Reservoir

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—The Indian Creek Valley Civic Assn. today mapped plans to block construction of a 250-million dollar water reservoir in Fayette County.

E. Sturgis Colborn, president of the association, said requests for aid would be sent to many communities and other groups to help combat a law passed by the Legislature which makes the dam possible.

The law authorized the Municipal Authority of Westmoreland County to condemn properties which the dam would inundate. The project would flood hundreds of square miles of land in Fayette County.

John Ware, Philadelphia, known as the nation's "water king," helped organize the Westmoreland authority and he operates it through a managership arrangement. He said during the weekend that construction on the dam was expected to begin within six months.

"The association wants all organizations to go to work on candidates for the state Senate and the state House and governor," Colborn said. "All these offices are to be elected next year and we want representatives elected that will be pledged to repeal or amend Bill 676."

Bill 676 enables the Westmoreland County authority to go outside the county and condemn land for the reservoir.

Colborn said his group has statewide support of the Izaak Walton League and the South Beaver County Civic Assn. The Westmoreland County Sportsmen's League also has named a committee to work for repeal of Bill 676.

The sportsmen's group is working with the state Forest & Waters

Dulles Says Reds Break Promises

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles tossed a new warning against Soviet promises today into the Allied debate in Paris over the advisability of East-West talks.

In an article in Life Magazine appearing on newsstands today, Dulles said the Soviet Union is seeking the break-up of Western alliances and Western acceptance of expanded Communist world influence as the price of a cold war armistice.

A 24-year-old record of broken Russian promises shows that the free world can rely on no agreement with the Communists that it cannot enforce, Dulles wrote.

An unenforceable armistice agreement could imperil the anti-Communist world, Dulles indicated, if it lulled the West into letting down its guard.

Diplomats Surprised

Diplomats were surprised at the timing of Dulles' expression of views on the dangers of trying to do business with the Russians. The article, released simultaneously by the State Department and the magazine, appeared just a week after Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin called for new East-West talks and simultaneous with the Paris NATO meeting at which President Eisenhower, Dulles and other Western leaders are debating the advisability of accepting the Bulganin invitation.

The State Department said the article was written long before the receipt of Bulganin's messages to Eisenhower and other Western leaders, although the current North Atlantic Treaty conference "summit" meeting had already been scheduled. The article appeared in a special year-end issue of Life devoted to "America's World Abroad."

Inquest Planned In Cresson Death

EBENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — A coroner's inquest will be held Thursday into the death of Mrs. Mary Hullihen, 33, who died of a brain tumor after being struck by her husband in their Cresson home.

Verne Hullihen, 34, the husband, posted $2500 bond Tuesday, pending the inquest. Cambria County Coroner Joseph Govekar said the husband had been detained when bruise marks were found on the victim's neck and eyes.

Police said Hullihen, a Pennsylvania railroad fireman, admitted striking his wife last Saturday night during an argument, but Govekar said an autopsy showed she died of a brain tumor.

Hullihen told investigators he attempted to take his own life with a rifle after his wife died. Officers found two bullet holes in a bedroom ceiling.

State Sanitary Board Cites Coal Operations

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Sanitary Water Board has cited three western Pennsylvania bituminous coal operations to the state Justice Department for failure to comply with board orders.

The Justice Department was asked to take "appropriate action" against:

The board also revoked permits of two operations because of failure to provide diversion facilities for surface water from the pits. They are Richard Keibler, Kiskiminetas Twp., Armstrong County, and the W. & R. Corp., Jackson Twp, Cambria County.

GI Insurance Dividend Due

WASHINGTON (UP)—A total of 262 million dollars in dividends will be paid to holders of World War I and II GI insurance policies in 1958.

The Veterans Administration warned the 5,390,000 veterans scheduled to receive the dividends that if they inquire about them in advance, it will delay payment of the money.

The VA said the dividends will be paid as near as possible to the anniversary date of each policy during the 1958 calendar year.

The VA will pay 240 million dollars to about five million holders of World War II National Service Life Insurance policies.

U.S. government life insurance, which originated in World War I, has about 300,000 policyholders who will receive a total of 22 million dollars.

Barbers Warned To Collect Tax

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Revenue Department today warned barbers and beauticians they must collect the 3 per cent sales tax on merchandise sold to customers.

The department said revised regulations specify that barbers and beauticians collect a tax on the "mark up" of items sold. Barber shops and beauty salons, themselves, pay tax on materials supplies and tools purchased from suppliers.

Defense Opens Case In 'Poison Pen' Trial

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UP)—The defense opened its case today in the conspiracy trial of Dist. Atty. Perry L. Reeher and six others accused of violating the state's election code.

Patsy Dando, one of the original defendants, was cleared of all charges Tuesday after the prosecution had rested its case. Judge Burton R. Laub said the state had failed to prove Dando took part in the alleged distribution of "poison pen" political pamphlets in the primary elections.

Closing of the state's case came as a surprise to both Judge Laub and defense counsel, since 60 Commonwealth witnesses had been subpenaed and only 26 appeared during five-days of testimony.

Charges against defendants Samuel F. Ascione, Frank Natale, Ben Ciccone and Adolph DiGennaro were reduced by Laub. They were cleared of all but distribution charges.

Judge Laub refused to reduce six - count indictments against Frank Acquaviva and Edward Tucker. He also rejected a motion for dismissal of the two counts of criminal conspiracy against Reeher.

State Rep. Dominick Cioffi (D-Lawrence) was the last prosecution witness to be called. He testified that Reeher and Acquaviva attempted to get him to intercede in the case.

Cioffi said he was first approached last August by Acquaviva. He said he told Acquaviva there was "nothing I can do." Reeher came to his home the next day and asked Cioffi to arrange a meeting with state Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride.

The assemblyman said he called McBride at Harrisburg, but was told he was out of town. Cioffi testified he did not call again.

Reeher is accused of participating in distribution of the unsigned political pamphlets which the state claims led to the defeat of Howard Lyon, his GOP opponent in last May's primary.

STERLING, Ill. (UP) — Santa Claus, blamed at first for causing a $100,000 fire in Kline's Department Store, didn't start it after all, the fire department said Tuesday. Fire Chief Richard Nicol said faulting lighting, not a mechanical St. Nick, was responsible for the fire.

Trucking Lines Must Haul 'Hot Cargo' ICC Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled today that truck lines cannot shirk their legal obligation to serve the public in order to honor a "hot cargo" clause in a labor union contract.

In a major ruling, the ICC held that it has no authority to pass on the legality of the controversial "hot cargo" clauses as such. But it made clear that truck lines honoring such provisions in a union contract at the expense of public service will be subject to penalties for violating the Interstate Commerce Act.

"Hot cargo" refers to goods coming from a firm involved in a labor dispute. Some unions, particularly the teamsters, have terms in their contract which permit them to refuse to handle such goods.

The ICC ruled on a case brought by Galveston Truck Line Corp. of Houston, Tex. This firm, headed by Desmond A. Barry, refused to sign a contract with the teamsters before the union had been certified by the National Labor Relations Board as a bargaining agent for its employes.

As a result, Barry's firm ran into a "boycott" by other southwest truckers. These firms refused to carry Galveston's cargo to its ultimate destination because the teamsters labelled it "hot."

The commission held that the refusal of these truck lines to accept and transport shipments brought to Oklahoma City by Galveston truck lines was "unlawful."

The ICC order is effective Feb. 3, 1958.

NATO

aggression—the chief purpose of NATO.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy met Allied enthusiasm bordering on exuberance when they sat down today with other defense chiefs and foreign ministers to discuss the U.S. missile proposal.

The main problem facing them was to work out a delicately-worded formula for the American supply of 1,500-mile range IRBMs to the Allies. The United States would control the nuclear warheads, and the decision to launch them would be shared with the country where they are based.

Their findings around the huge round table in the Palais de Chaillot were to be transmitted later today to a meeting of the heads of government. It was expected to be the next to last summit conference.

The NATO delegations also were heartened by the continued good health of President Eisenhower who was reported meeting the conclusion of the meeting with sustained energy and interest.

On top of Tuesday's full schedule which included attendance at a state dinner given at night by President Rene Coty of France, the President was seeing a number of NATO leaders today, lunching with Coty and attending the afternoon "summit" meeting.

While the defense experts met today four of the NATO foreign ministers were working on a communique expected to sum up the NATO missile position and the growing drive for some sort of talks with the Soviet leaders in hopes of reaching a lasting peace.

An "indirect" reply was expected to be written to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's rash of letters to NATO members just before the summit conference started. The West will stand by its latest disarmament proposals and insistence on a free, re-united Germany.

United Press correspondent Whitman Bassow reported from Moscow today the Soviet leaders would be expected to agree to a "summit" conference even if NATO accepts the American missiles offer. The initiative for such a conference has come from the Kremlin, especially following Russia's successful Sputnik launchings.

Wave of Trials Hits Hungary in Anti-Red Uprising

VIENNA (UP)—A wave of trials aimed at wiping out the last traces of the 1956 anti-Communist uprising is sweeping Hungary, informed sources said here today.

The sources said at least three major trials are in progress and others are expected to be disclosed shortly.

They said the wave was expected to culminate with the trial of Imre Nagy, prime minister of the short-lived "free" Hungarian government which was smashed by Soviet troops.

Trials currently in session, according to the sources, include those of Msgr. Egon Turcsanyi, secretary to Josef Cardinal Mindszenty; a group of priests, 18 workers of the huge Csepel Iron and Steel Works and members of the Gyor city revolutionary government.

The trials of Msgr. Turcsanyi and the workers are being held in the Markoutca Court in Budapest, the sources said.

They said that although no announcement has been made in the press, the trials are open to the public.

Chief defendant in the Gyor trial is Attila Szigethy, who headed a provincial revolutionary government in that western Hungarian city.

The sources also confirmed that Maj. Gen. Pal Maleter, defense minister in the Nagy government; Maj. Gen. Istvan Kovacs, chief of staff of the Hungarian army, and Col. Sandor Kopacsy, former Budapest chief of police, are being tried, probably in the Kohida secret prison in Sopron.

Just Tuesday the Hungarian delegation at the United Nations denied these three were on trial.

Negro County May Be Abolished in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Alabama's white voters, apparently fearful of a return to "carpet bag" government, gave solid approval Tuesday to a constitutional amendment that could lead to abolition of a predominantly Negro county.

The amendment creates a 16-member legislative committee to study whether or not it would be practical to wipe out Macon County, site of historic Tuskegee Institute for Negroes. The group also would decide what process would be used to eliminate the county.

United Press tabulations at midnight c.s.t. from 1,740 of the estimated 2,700 precincts showed 53,276 votes for the amendment and 37,173 against it.

If the study committee recommends to the Legislature that Macon County be done away with, the government body would then be allowed to take action through passage of a local bill. But the Legislature would have to follow the committee's suggested procedure.

The outcome was "just about what we expected," commented C. G. Gomillion, a Negro leader at Tuskegee. "There was no opposition to gerrymandering the city and we saw no good reason why we should expect any different behavior this time. We have to take it a step at a time."

Gomillion referred to the Legislature's action last summer which drew in the city limits of Tuskegee and disfranchised 410 of the 420 qualified Negro voters there.

State Sen. Sam Engelhardt, a strong segregationist and author of an earlier measure which would have divided Macon among five surrounding counties, was not available for comment on the election because of the death of his father.

Stassen Tosses Hat in Governor's Race; Asks Reaction of Chairmen

WASHINGTON (UP) — Harold E. Stassen, three-time governor of Minnesota, today awaited reaction of Republican County chairmen ofter announcing he was "seriously considering" running for governor of Pennsylvania.

Response of the 67 GOP chairmen was expected to have heavy influence on Stassen's final decision. He wrote letters to the county chairmen last week informing them of his interest in the Pennsylvania governorship.

Stassen, 50, now serving as administration disarmament adviser, would have to decide on running prior to a February filing deadline. He has not resigned his administration post, or informed President Eisenhower or Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that he is thinking of re-entering politics.

(Edwin A. Swink, Republican chairman for Westmoreland County, said today he has received Harold E. Stassen's letter, but will "pay no attention to it."

(Swink added:

"I'm not interested in a deal like that and I don't intend to comment further on it.")

When Stassen's intentions toward the governorship were first reported last February, Pennsylvania Republican leaders were generally cool. Reaction at the time ranged from surprise to outright opposition.

Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) termed Stassen's intentions at that time "ridiculous." James F. Malone Jr., president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturing Assn., said "there are many men who have been residents of Pennsylvania longer who are more capable of being governor."

Stassen, elected governor of Minnesota in 1939, 1941 and 1943, has been reported increasingly unhappy in his disarmament post under Dulles.

In his letters to GOP chairmen, Stassen said he realized he faced somewhat of a "handicap" because Pennsylvania was not the state of his birth "but rather the state of my choice."

He wrote that he was confident he could wage a campaign that would help elect a Republican senator and other GOP candidates as well as himself.

Stassen, if elected, promised to relieve unemployment, bring new business to the state, strengthen the state's financial program, eliminate waste, revise the tax structure, expand education and combat juvenile delinquency.

Stassen resigned the Minnesota governorship in 1943 to enter the Navy. He was president of the University of Pennsylvania from 1948 to 1953 before coming to Washington to serve in government posts.

Christmas Seal Sale in County At Half-way Mark

The sale of Christmas Seals in Westmoreland County amounts to $32,244.27 to date, the Westmoreland Public Health Association reported today.

This represents 54 per cent of the $60,000 which is needed to carry out the program planned for 1958-1959.

The Association reports that the sale of Christmas Seals is conducted only through the mail. It also does not receive any contributions from any United Funds or Community Chests.

Proceeds of the Christmas Seal Sale will support chest X-ray programs, education, rehabilitation, and medical research.

Emphasis has changed in a half century sale of Christmas Seals from merely keeping the tuberculosis victims alive. Today we work to find tuberculosis early when it is easiest to cure, to teach people how to protect themselves from tuberculosis and to help ex-TB patients to become useful members of society.

Rotary Children Hear Talk by Former Pastor

Members of the Monessen Rotary Club yesterday entertained their children, grandchildren and other young guests at an annual Christmas party at Johnson's.

About 30 young people were present and heard a talk by the Rev. Ted V. Voorhees, chaplain at Western State Penitentiary and former Methodist minister in Monessen.

The Rev. Mr. Voorhees talked about four views of Santa Claus, classifying people with respect to their attitudes towards charity and good will, the chief aspects of the Christmas spirit.

Each of the young guests was introduced by his host and each received a gift.

Shelby D. Ferguson of Belle Vernon was a visitor at the meeting.

Beaver Valley Highway On State Priority List

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens said today a proposed 50 million dollar highway through the Beaver Valley was on the department's priority list.

Stevens told three Beaver County legislators the proposed 60-mile long highway would connect with the Penn-Lincoln Parkway at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport, traverse Beaver and Lawrence counties and make a connection with the planned Keystone Shortway in Mercer County.

The highway, one of the most expensive federal - state primary roads ever to be constructed by the state, would be a controlled access facility with the federal government and the state sharing equally in the cost.

The project will include a new bridge over the Ohio River, but Stevens said the exact location of the span depends on the pinpointing of the highway route.

The announcement was made to Reps. Robert K. Hamilton, Ambridge and William B. Smith and Charles D. Stone, both of Ahquppa. They had introduced legislation in the 1957 General Assembly for construction of a toll bridge over the Ohio River in the Midland-Shippingport area. However, Stevens said the bridge on the proposed Beaver Valley highway would be a free span.

Stevens said he had no definite timetable when route location studies would be completed. He told the legislators the study was being expedited and would be submitted to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington for approval as soon as possible.

Community Fund 'Mop Up' Group Meets Tonight

A special "mop up" committee of the Monessen Community Fund will meet tonight in the Chamber of Commerce office to submit a final report.

For the past week, the committee — headed by Councilman John Kotch Jr. — has been calling on non-contributors in an effort to put the 1957 campaign over the top.

At last reports, the Fund was still $4,000 short of its current goal of $29,975.

The report of the "mop up" committee will probably conclude the 1957 campaign, according to Fund Chairman Michael Skirpan

Follow-up on the Donora Smog

A MEDICAL researcher at the University of Pittsburgh has made a follow-up study of the health of persons who were known to have been made ill during the fatal 1948 smog in the Donora-Webster area. And his findings contain welcome reassurance.

Using as a base an exhaustive study made by the U.S. Public Health Service following the disaster, Dr. D.J. Thompson, associate professor of biostatistics at Pitt, and a team of assistants have checked on the 4,095 people covered by the PHS survey. And among other things Dr. Thompson reports that "we can't distinguish Donora mortality from the rest of Pennsylvania, or even the United States."

Except for a slightly "higher incidence" of rheumatism and arthritis, which the Pitt researchers can't yet account for, the general public health in Donora and vicinity was found to be at least average.

* * *

SCIENCE is only beginning to explore the effects of industrial and other air pollution upon human beings. Except for some dramatic episodes such as the Donora smog, these effects seem to be subtle and elusive. And because the sources of pollution are so multitudinous, tracking them down seems almost as unpromising a task as looking for needles in haystacks.

But while the Monongahela Valley can draw some reassurance from the report of the Pitt investigators, it should put nobody to sleep. Whatever its effects on health may or may not be, polluted air is a blighting, deadening civic obstruction. More than any other single factor, it stands between the afflicted industrial communities and their progress towards desirable civic goals.

Common sense and enlightened self-interest, therefore, require such communities to fight smoke and smog and dirty air with every tool science and government can put into their hands. And they must fight it with positive determination to bring about steady improvement and avoid any inclination to sit back and wait for corrective measures to happen by themselves. It is certain that they won't.

It's good to hear, in other words, that the smoke and fumes in our air probably aren't killing us. But they are our foremost civic enemy nonetheless. And the war against it should be waged with all the vigor and resourcefulness progressive American communities have always used to brighten the lives and enhance the opportunities of their people.

The Taxpayer Pays

WE HAVE OFTEN wished that American politicians could find a way of making their deals without sending the bills to the taxpayers.

That wish recurred when we read of the appointment this week of Peter J. Demas, a Monessen attorney, to a position on the state payroll. Even though Mr. Demas may be qualified for the job, his qualifications had nothing to do with his getting it.

The job plainly is a reward or pay-off to Mr. Demas's father-in-law, former Chief of Police Michael Ferencz, who ended a four-year political feud with Mayor Parente and "returned to the fold," as he put it, just before the recent election.

It was never fully explained to the public just what came between Mr. Ferencz and the Mayor that caused the former to become a candidate against his boss in the 1953 election. Nor was the public told very much before the recent election about why, after four years of opposition, Mr. Ferencz decided that Mr. Parente, after all, should go on being Mayor.

But while the details of these little personal relationships may not always be clear or even important, it is never in doubt as to who pays when the fellows kiss and make up. One way or the other, the taxpayer gets the tab.

We wish Mr. Demas well in his state position. We hope he is needed and that he will do a faithful job. But we still think politicians should pay for their own parties.

Good Start at Paris

PRESIDENT Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles struck about the right note, we thought, in their opening addresses at the NATO conference in Paris.

As he has often done so well, the President made an appeal for "greatness in courage of will to explore every path of common enterprise that may advance the cause of justice and freedom."

Then he and Mr. Dulles went on in a practical way to catalogue the military, economic and political power of the free world.

The hard business of the Paris meeting is yet to come, of course. But it seems not too much to say even now that the United States is carrying its part well.

Merry-Go-Round—

Ike-Adlai Relations Are Chilly

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside the White House — Shortly before he left for Paris, Eisenhower let off a little private steam against Adlai Stevenson. He said he had never listened to Stevenson while Adlai was campaigning against him for president, and he didn't propose to start now. That's why he wasn't interested in Stevenson's recommendations for NATO. . .Adlai was irked not only at Ike's lukewarmness but because, while they talked, White House aides kept peeking in the door to remind Ike he was late for the next appointment. Stevenson remembered the many, many appointments Ike has had with "the truck driver of the year," visiting ladies' delegations, etc., and figured his participation in the NATO conference was a bit more important.... Vice President Nixon had hoped until the very end that he would go to Paris with Ike. He studied NATO problems carefully, was well informed, but failed to reckon with his rivals, Sherman Adams and Jim Hagerty. They sold the President on the idea that Dick should stay at home. . .Some people underestimate the feud now raging between Dick, Jim and Sherman. The latter two are really bitter at the Vice President.

Mr. Pearson

Manhattan-Go-Round—The rest of the country is going to get more of Manhattan's basic trouble which caused the subway strike. Real reason for the strike is the rebellion of skilled labor against industrial unions. The Motormen's Benevolent Association wants to back away from the CIO Transport Workers so it can get better wages and hours. Walter Reuther, who runs the United Auto Workers, a CIO industrial union, recognizes the problem and got extra benefits for his more skilled workers. . .In New York, Mike Quill, head of the Transport Workers, has been close to Mayor Bob Wagner and the City Transit Authority. He's never had a strike before, always got what he wanted. In return he gave the city about $3 million a year by saving on featherbedding. He didn't replace men who died or quit. The city got the benefit of this $3 million to build new subway stations and make repairs. . .New York police are still trying to figure out what to do with the $11,200 in worn bills found in the taxicab of Herbert Petrie of Brooklyn after Tammany leader Carmine DeSapio got out. It was July 25 that Petrie found the money, but the police haven't returned it to him yet. Carmine just isn't interested, says flatly it isn't his.

Kansas City-Go-Round— Headaches for the Kansas City Star continue. Last week three suits were filed against it—as previously predicted by this column. They came from the Independence, Mo., News, Craig Siegfried, publisher, for $1,000,000, which can be $3,000,000 under the Clayton Act; Loyd and William Neff, publishers of the Johnson County Herald, $500,000, which can be $1,500,000 under the Clayton Act; Phyllis and Lloyd Beal, publishers of the Industrial Press and North Kansas City News, $850,000, which can be $2,550,000. . .Kansas City News Press, Garrett Smalley, publisher, has already collected around $100,000 from the Star based upon its anti-trust operations for which it was convicted. Since this conviction stands on the public record, it's almost automatic that the three plaintiffs above can collect under the Clayton Act, which allows triple damages for violation of the anti-trust laws. . .The Star has already sold its TV and radio stations for $7,000,000. The above suits total more than $7,000,000. ... The Star was indicted during the closing days of the Truman administration, but Attorney General Brownell, Republican, continued the indictments and brought a conviction — with one exception, Roy Roberts. Eisenhower made a personal request that publisher Roberts, who had been indicted, not be prosecuted. Roberts had been among the first to propose Ike for President. His indictment was dropped.

Monopolizing Scrap — The European iron and steel industry, which the United States helped to organize when Harold Stassen was foreign aid administrator, is still favoring the American scrap-iron company whose lawyer was Stassen's right-hand man. . .Usually Europeans who benefit from the American government take a tip from American government agencies. In this case, one government agency, the Federal Trade Commission, is investigating the scrap-iron monopoly, especially Luria Brothers, biggest scrap-iron dealers in the world. But another government agency, ICA, once headed by Stassen whose attorney was attorney for Luria Brothers, seems to be in an opposite corner from the FTC.

From Washington—

Ike May Act on Disability

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

For two breathlessly critical years Congress has been fumbling, feuding and fiddling over one of the most urgent needs of the government — and doing absolutely nothing about it. The need is to deal with the problem of presidential disability.

Mr. Drummond

The need is greater today than ever, greater than when Mr. Eisenhower had his heart attack in Denver in September, 1955. Mr. Eisenhower would be the first to say so.

If Congress does not act promptly when it convenes next month, Mr. Eisenhower ought, and I am convinced, very likely will, act unilaterally to specify and authorize how the powers and duties of the presidency — which would wither in a vacuum — would be discharged if he were at any time unable to discharge them.

Decision Necessary

First, it needs to be understood that Mr. Eisenhower's presence in Paris and his ability to participate in the NATO meeting, heartening and welcome as it is, does not decrease one iota the pressing need of clearing up the constitutional vagueness over what happens in the event of presidential disability and how, if the President cannot determine his own disability, it shall be determined.

When I suggest that the need to act forehandedly on this matter is greater than ever, I mean that Mr. Eisenhower's very decision to go to Paris makes it clear that he intends to risk the danger of overdoing rather than to be over-cautious in hoarding his strength. I am sure that he would rather be a casualty of the cold war than to feel that he was neglecting his duties.

One of Mr. Eisenhower's first actions when he returned to Washington after his recuperation in late 1955 was to formulate a considered proposal to remove the uncertainty over presidential disability. He offered a constitutional amendment providing:

That if the President knew he was disabled, he could ask the Vice-President in writing to serve as Acting President until he stated in writing that he was ready to resume his duties.

That if the President were disabled but did not know it, the cabinet by majority vote could make this determination at which point the Vice-President would exercise the powers and duties of the presidency until the President stated in writing that he could take back his functions.

Congress yawned, did nothing. Speaker Sam Rayburn glowered over his shoulder at Vice-President Nixon and gave the word: it shall not pass. Nearly everybody sat on their hands.

This isn't good enough, and certainly no issue of personality should be allowed to stand in the way of dealing with such a large matter.

There are two reasons why Mr. Eisenhower will, I think, have to act at his own initiative.

There is no good prospect that Congress is going to do anything soon.

Long Process

Even if Congress should bring itself to approve the administration proposal, it would not come into effect for at least three years and perhaps not until later because it would take that long before a constitutional amendment could get ratified by the necessary 36 state legislatures.

I am not relying merely on my own knowledge of the Constitution when I suggest that it is entirely possible and practicable for Mr. Eisenhower to establish an historic precedent by announcing in any appropriate formal manner:

That if he should determine that he could not perform his duties, the constitutional clause, which provides that these duties shall devolve upon the Vice-President, shall become operative.

That if he should be unable to determine his disability, the cabinet by majority vote is directed by him to make this decision, as a result of which the Vice-President would discharge the powers of the presidency as long as required.

Constitution not Clear

This would not alter the Constitution. The Constitution is silent on this point. It would only clarify the Constitution by precedent.

It would also take no authority from Congress. Congress would be free to accept this precedent or to substitute a solution of its own in its place.

Such an initiative by the President would at the very least get Congress off the dime.

In sweeping moves to meet 1948 expenses of $305,746, an increase of over $50,000 from the 1947 figure, City Council last night heard the first reading of new ordinances which call for a tax of 10 per cent on all amusements, levies of $25 for each jukebox and pinball machine, a $3 per head poll tax and a mercantile license tax of one mill on every dollar of gross revenue for wholesale dealers and two mills on each dollar for retailers.

Workers at the Somers mine, Pricedale, refused to go to work early this morning in presumed sympathy with workers of the Montour No. 4 mine, Pittsburgh Coal Co., operators of both mines, allegedly failed to heed demands of a union committee that the company fix an arbitrary rule requiring two mechanics to be employed when mechanical equipment is to be moved.

Behind The News—

Missile Issue Could Bring U. S., Soviet Talks

By CHARLES M. McCANN

A Soviet Russian proposal to ban nuclear weapons bases in central Europe may lead to new negotiations to ease the cold war.

Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin made the proposal in the series of "peace and co-existence" letters he sent last week to western allied governments and to all other countries which belong to the United Nations.

Mr. McCann

Bulganin said that if the United States would give up the idea of establishing the bases in West Germany, Russia would not set up similar bases in East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The United States believes that it is essential to establish intermediate range ballistic missile bases in the allied countries of western Europe.

Principal NATO Issue

This issue is one of the principal ones at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference now meeting in Paris.

Some of the NATO countries frankly do not want them. They fear that they would become targets for Russian nuclear missiles if war broke out between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Even Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, one of the staunchest leaders of the NATO allies, is hesitant about consenting to the establishment of missile bases in West Germany.

It is beginning to look now as if the United States may be forced into negotiations of some kind with Russia.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles do not believe that Bulganin's various "peace and co-existence" proposals of last week were made in good faith.

They are mindful of Russia's persistent refusal to enter in good faith into any proposals— on the banning of nuclear weapons, on disarmament, on the reunification of Germany—over a long period.

Aimed at NATO Sabotage

In addition, Bulganin's letters were too obviously aimed at sabotaging the NATO meeting in Paris.

But pressure for some kind—almost any kind—of negotiations to ease the strain of the cold war, and especially to diminish the threat of a calamitous nuclear war, are becoming almost irresistible.

Eisenhower, in his speech opening the NATO conference yesterday, spoke largely in generalities. He spoke of the need for "re-dedication" and "self-sacrifice" and emphasized the combined power of the 15 NATO allies.

But at the first business meeting which followed, Adenauer really got down to business.

Adenauer called on Eisenhower and other NATO leaders to open the way for cold war talks with Russia. He suggested that a start be made through normal diplomatic channels. The idea would be to find out just what Bulganin meant in his letters.

The Lighter Side—

Adventure at Sea In Small Outboard

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—The age of high adventure on the seas may be gone with the windjammers, and Mel West says he doesn't give a hoot whether it is or isn't—he is no adventurer; he's just trying to prove something.

What, then, is he doing out there in the stormy North Atlantic in a 15-foot open boat with an outboard motor? Does he ply the raging main in a puny putt-putt job just—as the climber said of Mt. Everest—because it's there?

And if he's got to choose a boat for open ocean-going, why doesn't he slip into something safe and seaworthy?

That's just it, says West, the thing IS seaworthy — "it can be maneuvered safely in any body of water, even in the ocean, provided there is the proper care, planning, and common sense." That's what he's trying to prove. It takes a heap of proving.

To Bermuda by Putt-Putt

Last October, he proposed to take a 15-foot open runabout—a plywood job with a 30-horse outboard motor, the type of thing used for rivers and lakes and not for ocean going—on a 613 - mile jaunt from North Carolina to Bermuda. The proposal left a few mouths agape in Morehead City, N. C., his home town. The mouths belonged to the Coast Guard and numerous old salts who had spent a lifetime at sea.

"Nobody gave me a chance," says West. But he had put in 10 months of planning — weather, load ration with power, weight, and fuel consumption. He started out one morning on what was supposed to be a three-day run to Bermuda. Eleven days later when a Coast Guard plane sighted him, he was 160 miles from destination, out of gas.

He had run into stormy weather, high wind and waves that cut his speed to three knots. At times, in the wave troughs, he was looking up at crests 20 to 22 feet above him. He did a lot of bailing—was swamped four times but had enough tank capacity to enable him to bail fast enough to survive.

Out of Gas, But...

On the sixth night, a five-gallon auxiliary gasoline can broke mooring and pounded against his main fuel tank feed line, breaking it. He bailed half a tank of gasoline from the bilge and ran the rest of the night from auxiliary cans. Next morning, he was out of gas.

"If that had been moored properly, I'd have been in Bermuda," he says. "What I'm trying to prove is that it is not unsafe if you take the proper care and preplanning."

And so, he says — he's going back out, on an endurance test. This time in a 17-foot open runabout, unassisted in mid-winter—"just lose myself, with proper food and equipment, for at least 10 days and as long thereafter as I can stand it. They can't stop me. I'm a licensed pilot."

West, a slight, crew-cut man of 28, married, with three children, has been "on the ocean all my life." A former radio disk jockey, he expects eventually to take over his father's fishing pier at home. This small-boat venture, he says, is unsponsored — "just my own money."

The Woman's View—

Mediocrity Looking Up

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Paul McCobb, a leader in home furnishings design, says the year 1957 produced a higher "level of mediocrity" than we've had in years.

"I'm encouraged about the future," said McCobb, who in 15 years of design has won numerous citations. "We had many highlights, and some all too obvious low - lights. But the highlights won." McCobb said our taste generally is improving..."the level of mediocrity is up."

McCobb, a man who speaks his mind no matter what the results, offered to list for the United Press the good and bad of the 1957 design world, from cars to coffee tables.

Color Proper—Except Cars

"There were some highlights in 1957 not easily recognizable because they had been growing in acceptance previously," said McCobb. He referred to proper use of color, other than in automobiles, noticeable in fabrics, floor coverings and other home products.

"I was delighted to see the comeback of the sky and sea blues," said the designer. "Two years ago in decorating, blue was a dead word. Yet it's one of the basics.

"The island carpet is another of the cumulative design effects ...an innovation that creates little focal points of warmth and eye appeal in the home.

"And here, we might mention as one of the highlights, the growing interest in warm, textured woods, such as walnut and teak.

Okay for Haciendas

"Another has been the use of plastic in its true sense: for the new and colorful accessories for the kitchen. And beyond all doubt, the re-discovery of the versatility of aluminum is the beginning of a new and exciting trend. Its cool, handsome look . . .will unquestionably be further developed. . . for our homes in 1958."

"Low-lights in design almost always fall into the category of gimmicks," said McCobb. "Its equivalent in furniture is the new pseudo Spanish - Mexican trend, totally unsuited to the demands of our life today, except maybe for the few. . .who still live in haciendas."

McCobb chastised the automotive industry for its "Christmas tree arrangement of headlights, tail lights, spotlights and the standard affliction — chromitis. Not to mention the decorator-selected three - toned color schemes. . .conceived by whose decorator?"

City League Program Starts 'Fast'

Monessen's City Basketball League program got off with a bang Monday with close, thrilling action in all three tilts . . . Reports have it that the pre- game ceremony was impressive and the crowd surprisingly large at the Armory court . . . Speaking of the City League, Company D should be a strong addition to the loop, the latest entry to join depending on Mickey Tweardy, Don Jones and Capt. Harry Davis, Company D commander to spark the team . . . Coach Pete Freado says all of the players on the soldiers' five will be Company D recruits. Okay, sarge! . . . Walt Malinchak and Steve Hardoby are officating the games.

Recreation Director Tom D'Errico deserves a hand for his fine work in getting the City League baseball program underway, overcoming many obstacles . . . He and Frederick Feldman have also lined up the grade school cage program . . . Taking care of the clock for Farrell High School Monday night was George Varkonda, a Monessen High grad (Class of 1945) who has been teaching at Farrell High for four years . . . He renewed acquaintances with MHS Athletic Director Everett Pancook; Lou Kichinko, our sidekick; Larry Pfiester, 'Hound scorer; and Nello Tinari, MHS Jayvee score-keeper, all of whom attended the game, and asked to be remembered to his many Monessen friends.

Visit Two Towns Simultaneously

Several Monessen High cagers visited two communities simultaneously Monday night due to the odd boundary situation at Farrell where the borough line runs down the center of the highway separating Farrell and Sharon . . . The MHS athletics stood in the middle of the street with one foot in each of the two communities . . . Included in the group were Dan Barton, Carl Osborne, George Murin, and Joe Kurey and several others who made the move so quickly we misser the names . . . Assistant coaches John Dacko and Tony Caterino also got in the act . . . Superintendent of schools Dr. Joseph Pallone, and Nicholas Cullen, local school director, accompanied the team on the long trek.

Domonic DiBiaso, grandfather of Dick DiBiaso, Monessen cager, witnessed his first basketball game when the locals played Duquesne here last week . . . The proud grandfather saw Dick play a fine game . . . Four sons, one of whom is "Dibby" popular sportsman here, who is Dick's father, got quite a kick out of "Dad" seeing the game but all the sons complain, "He wouldn't go to see us play." . . . The locals shot 35 per cent against Farrell but looked sad at the foul line . . . Rostraver Junior High School's Willie Ross, on the other hand, sank nine in a row in that record-breaking 35 point exhibition against the Charleroi Juniors Monday.

County Title 'Rhubaro' Develops

Quite a rhubarb developed at the meeting of the Fayette County Coaches Association this week to award trophies to the County's top AA, A and B grid teams for 1957, according to a Uniontown report . . . It seems everyone was in agreement that Uniontown had the top AA team and German Township the best A team in Fayette County but it was in the B division that the trouble started when Perryopolis was tabbed the top eleven . . . It was reported that the Masontown coach John Lozar, who's team defeated Perry, walked out of the meeting when the Commodores were declared champs . . . It might have been better to have vacated the B crown this year since Perry won only one game and lost one in County play, Masontown's only County game being the Perry tilt.

Coaches Praise Russell

James K. Russell, football coach at Donora High School for the past 27 years, will be honored at a huge banquet in Twin Coaches on Dec. 28, but already the testimonials are pouring in.

Dr. Michael Duda, president of California State Teachers College and chairman of the upcoming event, said that many of the nation's sports figures have already mailed tributes to Russell.

One of the first was Terry Brennan, the Notre Dame grid boss who wrote:

"The idea of honoring Jimmy Russell is certainly a fine one. My best to Jimmy and I hope the affair is as big as it should be for a man who has done so much for young boys."

Stu Holcomb, athletic director at Northwestern, wrote:

"Kindly convey my sincere best wishes to Jimmy Russell, a very fine coach."

Here's what some others had to say:

Capt. Tom Halmilton, athletic director at Pitt: "I am so happy that this testimonial is being planned for a great guy. If possible I will be most happy to come and help all of you honor one of the finest men we have in sports."

Clyde B. Smith, athletic director at Arizona State: "If anybody deserves a testimonial, Jimmy Russell certainly does."

Dr. Leo O'Donnell, surgeon at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh: "I should deem it an honor and a pleasure to be present to testify to the fine qualities of Jimmy Russell as a coach and as a gentleman."

Tickets for the Russell testimonial banquet are now available at agencies throughout the Mon Valley. The tickets sell for $5 each.

Rostraver Repeats Win Over Bellmar, 55-38

Rostraver made it a clean sweep of its annual "back-yard" series with Bellmar last night with a 55-38 victory at Rostraver Junior High gym

Earlier in the season, the Leopards had topped Bellmar at the Hurricanes' home court.

A close game last night broke open in the third period when the 'Canes could score only two markers to 10 for the winners.

The first quarter ended 13-12 in Rostraver's favor and George Everett's Leps held a 30-24 half-time margin.

Schmidt Gets 23

Some glory was salvaged by Bellmar, even in defeat as Ron Schmidt only holdover regular on the team, hit for 23 points, 13 of them on fouls. In fact, Schmidt sank 13 free throws in succession before missing his last try for a 13 out of 14 performance.

He received little scoring help however as the next highest point-makers were Carl Osborne and John Dubinsky with three points each.

Dick Shaffer led Rostraver with 16. Three teammates hit in double figures, Jimmy Bush getting 12, Joe Karbowsky 11 and Gus Allen 10.

Next start for Bellmar is at Bethlethem Joint next Monday while Rostraver is at Perry Friday.

Monessen Five Visits Aliquippa Tomorrow Night in Next Test

Locals Hope to Bounce Back from Farrell Defeat Against 'Quips'

Monessen High's basketball team makes its next start at Aliquippa tomorrow night, the second of two "far away" games this week.

Monday night the locals traveled to Farrell and dropped a tough 44-40 decision to the Steelers.

At Aliquippa the Greyhounds will be facing a quintet which has won three games and dropped two, three of the games against mutual foes of the Janosikmen.

For instance.the Quips lost to McKeesport, 70-41, a team which topped Monessen, 61-44. Aliquippa lost to Duquesne by a 57-51 count while the 'Hounds topped the Little Dukes, 46-34.

Last night the Quips edged Johnstown, 51-48, a team Monessen defeated by Monessen, 57-40.

Rugged Section

Aliquippa competes in Section 3, the same section which has such powerhouses as Sharon, Farrell, New Castle, Elwood City, Beaver Falls and Ambridge.

Coach Frank Janosik of the locals, disappointed at the showing of the locals against Farrell in which they blew a lead going into the final quarter may make some lineup switches.

Monessen had been playing improved ball up until the Farrell contest but seemed sluggish against the Steelers perhaps from the long bus ride.

The usual starters have been Joe Kurey, Bill Makinen, Dick DiBiaso, George Murin and Charles Bill. Paul Loins, a sophomore saw some action against Farrell.

Janosik will not announce any changes until game time.

Russell Paces Donora Over West Newton

Otto Leone and Jerry Parker paced Coach Sherman Brizzi's West Newton five with 13 and 12 points each.

LaFayette Hands Local Juniors First Loss, 33-15

Coach Frederick Feldman's Monessen Junior High quintet came out on the short end in the battle of unbeatens with Uniontown LaFayette here yesterday by a 33-15 count.

The loss was the first for the Feldman crew after five straight wins.

Actually the game was not as one-sided as the score sounds for until the final period the it was anybody's game. In the final frame, however, 16-1 quarter for Uniontown turned the trick completely.

The score was 17-14 in favor of LaFayette going into the last quarter.

'Twins' Stopped

Tony Romasco hit for only six points and the other scoring "twin" of the locals, Bill Batiste, could get only two markers. Moorman of Uniontown had 14 for game scoring honors.

Monessen connected on only three of 13 free throws and were out-field goaled, 13-6.

Next start for the locals is at West Newton Friday to wind up the exhibition card before the league opener at Monongahela on January 10.

A Marion rally in the third quarter wasn't quite enough.

George Nucci hit for eight markers to pace the Marion attack while Joe Ercegovich had seven for second top honors but both took a back seat to "Deadeye" Brown of Redstone who canned 15 points on six fielders and three free throws.

Marion sank 12 of 25 free throws to 9 of 25 for the winners but the Little Hawks had four more field goals then Coach Harry Muckle's locals.

Dodgers Step Closer to Use Of Rose Bowl

LOS ANGELES (UP)— The Los Angeles Dodgers today moved a step closer to possible use of the Pasadena's world-famous Rose Bowl as a temporary home until they can build their own baseball stadium.

The Board of Directors of the neighboring city voted 6-1 late Tuesday day to authorize their city manager to enter into negotiations with the Dodgers on possible use of the stadium.

The vote drew the quick response of spokesman Arthur (Red) Patterson that "the Los Angeles Dodgers are pleased with the action of the Pasadena Board of Directors in extending the hospitality of their Rose Bowl."

He said Dodger President Walter O'Malley would hold a meeting with Pasadena City Manager Don C. McMillan to "arrange the procedure of negotiations."

Construction of the club's own stadium is being delayed by a referendum election against a contract between the Dodgers and the city of Los Angeles for use of Chavez Ravine as a site.

Bernie Matthews collected 21 points for the Dukes while George Brown, a sophomore, scored 17.

Detroit moved into a 41-33 lead in the first half against the Frankies and was never headed. Ralph Uchison scored 26 points for Detroit and his teammate Mike Walsh 24.

Jimmy Brown Eighth Rookie to Win Pro Ball-Carrying Title

PHILADELPHIA (UP)— Jolting Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns today became the eighth rookie to win the ball-carrying championship of the National Football League.

Statistics showed the former Syracuse University all-around athlete gained a peak 942 yards on 202 attempts for an average of 4.7 yards.

Brown, who set an NFL single-game rushing record of 237 yards against Los Angeles Nov. 3, finished 242 yards ahead of defending champion Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears, who had 700 yards on 204 carries.

Casares had taken the crown as second-year pro last season. Alan (The Horse) Ameche of the Baltimore Colts won the honors in 1955.

Although the NFL has one game to play — Cardinals versus Steelers at Chicago next Sunday—Tommy O'Connell of Cleveland has such a commanding lead among the passers he can be regarded as champion in that category. O'Connell's average gain of 11.17 yards was 2.14 better than that of Eddie Lebaron of Washington. O'Connell completed 63 of 110 passes for a total of 1,229 yards and eight touchdowns.

Billy Wilson of San Francisco is setting the pace as the league's top pass receiver with 52 snatches, but Jack McClairen of Pittsburgh, in third place with 44, has a chance to move up in the finale with the Cardinals. Ray Berry of Baltimore is in second spot with 47 receptions.

Wesleyan Service Guild In Two Events This Week

Two events were held by the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church on Sunday and Monday of this week.

On Sunday the local Guild was hostess group for a District Workshop. The program began at 2:30 under the direction of Katheleen DeWitt of Connellsville, district secretary.

Representatives attended from Conellsville, the Asbury and First Methodist Churches of Uniontown, Webster Methodist, First Methodist of McKeesport and the local church. Carol Davenport, president of the local Guild and Gladys Adele Dobson were representatives of the local group.

Following the introduction of local Guild officers, workshop groups were formed. Guild work on a local level and Bible study were the themes of the program.

There was a fellowship period during which a story was told with all present taking part. A playlet was then enacted by Katherine Norris, Mildred Reiter, Evelyn McDiffeit, Clara Louise Schneider and Carol Davenport. These girls then headed a discussion group.

Mildred Reiter gave a talk telling the relationship of the Guild and Women's Society of Christian Service. After the friendship circle and benediction the young women went to the social rooms for their evening meal. All of the Guilds provided the food that was served by the host group.

On Monday evening the regular meeting of the Guild was held, and it was highlighted by a Christmas program. Miss Davenport opened the session with a reading, "Friendship At Christmastime." Mrs. Berneil Lewis and Miss Davenport sang "The First Christmas Carol" and were later joined by Ruth Gilchrist to sing in trio, "The Angel Song."

"The Star" was the devotional theme and Florence Ames was the leader. Retta McSweeney presented the Bible story of Christmas, the birthday of Christ.

Miss Davenport reported on the workshop sessions and the decoration of the church, which was also a Guild project for the Christmas season. It was decided to continue with the sale of napkins inscribed with a scripture verse.

Plans were made for the next meeting on Jan. 20 at the home of Mrs. C.W. Bierwirth on Speer St. It will be in the form of a covered dish dinner.

A social hour followed and luncheon was served by the hostess, Gladys Adele Dobson.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Terry Peterson and Mrs. Gilchrist.

Wesleyan Class Hears Program At Local Church

The Wesleyan Class of the First Methodist Church held the December meeting on Thursday in the church social rooms.

During the program two readings were given by Mrs. Myrtle Gaul and Mrs. John Nelson.

There was a brief business session during which a report was given on the ill members.

A social hour followed and luncheon was served by Mrs. John Kimball and Mrs. John Gray. Table decorations were in keeping with the season and each cover was marked with an individual red rose favor.

Carols were sung during the evening, and gifts were exchanged. The evening concluded with the singing of "Bless This House." by Mrs. Arthur Sellars.

The members of the Protectors Club of the Dames of Malta will have their Christmas dinner party this evening in the Wellington Hotel in Charleroi.

Girl Scouts In Ceremony

Girls of Intermediate Troop 62 will have a Christmas party and investiture ceremony this evening at 7 o'clock in the Girl Scout Little House. Their mothers are to be special guests for the program.

Plans for the session were completed on Monday evening at the regular meeting under the direction of Mrs. Melba Woods and Mrs. Althea Heath.

Maureen Woods, Kay Strenske and Eilenne Riskey conducted the flag and horseshoe ceremonies. Patrol duties were in charge of Ruth Melnick and Kay Strenske.

Group singing and games concluded the meeting.

Christmas Dance Tomorrow Night

The annual Vernon Junior High School Christmas dance will be held tomorrow night in the school gymnasium. A gay Christmas setting has been provided for the festivities, and music for dancing will be provided by recordings.

Interspersing the dancing will be a program of entertainment, and later there will be refreshments.

Student committees under the direction of faculty members are in charge of arrangements.

Regulars Class Holds Christmas Party Monday

Members of the Regulars Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Belle Vernon gathered for a Christmas dinner party in the church social rooms on Monday evening.

Miniature Santas, snowmen, holly, evergreen and other symbols of the Yuletide season decorated the table where dinner was served and the social rooms.

The Christmas program began with invocation by Mrs. Valeria Wilkinson. Mrs. Edith Smock read, "The Origin of the Christmas Carols." The Christmas story was told by Mrs. Thelma Dickson.

Vocal selections in keeping with the program theme were presented by June Boyce. The program concluded with prayer given by Mrs. Ethel Nicoden.

The class members exchanged gifts and games were played for the remainder of the evening.

On the dinner committee were Inez Patterson, Julia Leitch, Ann Diederich, Margaret Stark and Dorothy Beall. In charge of the program were Mrs. Smock, Ethel Nicoden and Myrtle Crawford, who accompanied for singing of carols.

K of C to Hold 'Carol Night'

The third annual "Carol Night" and a children's Christmas party have been planned by members of Belle Vernon Council 3026 Knights of Columbus on Thursday evening. It will be held in the St. Sebastian Roman Catholic School at 6:30 p.m.

The members of the group will have their children as guests. Frank Buscanics will be present to lead the singing for the third consecutive year.

A special Christmas program is planned along with a visit from "Santa Claus" and distribution of treats.

Rebekah Lodge To Hold Banquet

The Lady Belle Rebekah Lodge will meet for a Christmas banquet tomorrow evening at Crawford's restaurant in Rostraver Township.

After the serving there will be a Christmas program and social time. The party will replace the usual business session.

Vernon PTA Christmas Meeting Held on Monday

The Christmas meeting of the Vernon Parent Teacher Association was held on Monday evening in the Vernon Junior High School auditorium. Mrs. Myrtle Johnston, president, opened the session by reading a poem, "The Friendly Beast".

The group joined in the pledge of allegiance and the PTA prayer.

During the business session plans were made for the January meeting at Bellmar High School with Miss Coatsworth, Fayette County Schools speech correctionist, as the speaker.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Trombino was in charge of the program. The group joined in the singing of Christmas carols with Mrs. Betty Bunardzya playing the organ accompaniment.

Accordion solos were presented by Joey Amendola and Carol Wysochanski.

Carlyn Carter presented a vocal solo accompanied by her mother, and Kathie Dolfi sang a solo with Kenneth Spina accompanying.

Linda Johnston read a Christmas story. Tap and ballet dance specialties were presented by Sharon Myers and Arlene Holet.

Mrs. Edmund Szymansky presented the guest cake, which was won by Laura Free.

Attendance banners for the session were awarded to the fifth grade at Belle Vernon Grade School taught by Miss Myrtle Beazell, and the first grade by Mrs. Ruth Gilchrist at North Belle Vernon.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the social committee headed by Mrs. Alden Mills.

Blue Cross Rate Hearings Will Open Jan. 13

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Insurance Department will open hearings in Philadelphia Jan. 13 on the proposed 50 per cent increase sought in Blue Cross medical rates in that city.

The first series of hearings will apply to the increases in rates asked by the Associated Hospital Service of Philadelphia, which serves about 2,000,000 subscribers in the Philadelphia area.

State Insurance Commissioner Francis R. Smith, who will preside at the hearings, said similar hearings will be held in Pittsburgh on medical service rate increases asked for that area's subscribers immediately upon completion of the Philadelphia hearings. The Hospital Service Association of western Pennsylvania, serving another 2,000,000 subscribers in the Pittsburgh area, has filed increases similar to those asked for Philadelphia.

When the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh hearings are completed another set of hearings are slated for Harrisburg where the Capital Hospital Service, Inc., is seeking higher rates for 700,000 Blue Cross subscribers in central Pennsylvania.

No Nose Cone Used On the Atlas Missile

By DAYTON MOORE

WASHINGTON (UP) — Testimony before a Senate hearing on the U.S. missile-satellite lag indicated today that the Atlas continent-spanning missile fire successfully Tuesday was sent up without its nose cone.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force ballistic missile chief, told the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee a complete Atlas was not used in Tuesday's test firing or in either of the two earlier unsuccessful tries.

His statement further indicated that the major problem connected with the cone is to prevent it from burning up when it reenters the earth's atmosphere.

"Except for a full-scale, all-the-way test — which is proof of the pudding — we are fully confident that we have the nose cone problem in hand," Schriever testified.

Call To Unity

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson called upon Americans today to unite and work as they did after Pearl Harbor to put the U.S. ahead of Russia in the missile race.

"We have to spend our days and nights trying to get ahead," the Texas Democrat said.

The second round of Johnson's subcommittee hearings wound up in a state of dour warnings, bright forecasts and more frenzied activity at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile test range.

New Atlas Readied

Technicians began readying another Atlas 5,000-mile intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) following Tuesday's successful Atlas test amid these developments:

—Air Force Chief of Staff Thomas D. White predicted interstellar travel within 25 years.

—Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle said that by the year 2,000, man will have travelled to Mars or Venus.

The sharpest warning of the need for an all-out U.S. weapons effort came Tuesday at the preparedness hearings from Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, Air Force vice chief of staff.

"Unless we do something very radical," Lemay said, "we will become inferior to the Russians militarily in a very short time.

The subcommittee, which concluded its second round of public hearings Tuesday night, will resume Jan. 6 with at least another week of hearings scheduled.

Noisy Thing

NEW YORK (UP)—Fred Clark of Xenia, Ohio, heard an alarming buzzing sound coming from his suitcase today and called police. Bomb squad detectives rushed to the Roosevelt Hotel where Clark was staying and took the suitcase to the roof. Inside they found a battery-operated, vibrating clothes brush humming away.

Highway Dept. Transfer Possible

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov George M. Leader has told the General State Authority there is a "reasonably good prospect" the state Highways Department office force will be transferred to the Pennsylvania Turnpike's administration headquarters.

Leader told the authority Tuesday his staff was completing a study of the possible move and promised a final report at the next agency meeting, Jan. 16.

Transfer of the department to the Turnpike building at the Highspire Interchange would rule out construction of an $8,200,000 structure to house the overcrowded Property and Supplies Department

In other authority business, the Architects and Engineers Committee recommended the employment of these firms for designing and preparing plans for these projects:

Gannett, Fleming Corddry and Carpenter, Inc., Harrisburg, for repair of two access bridges at Shawnee State Park for $5,000; Button & McLean, Pittsburgh, two buildings to cost $1,800,000 at Woodville State Hospital; Ettore Lippi, Kingston, a $40,000 living quarters for the medical director of Samuel G. Dixon Hospital, Mont Alto; Lippi also was recommended to design a $40,000 home for the director of Charles H Miner State Hospital, Hamburg, Berks County and a $75,000 paint shop at the institution.

Carnicelli and Ciechetti, Pittsburgh, a $68,248 replacement to the dining building at Lawrence F. Flick State Hospital, Cresson; Altenhof and Brown, Pittsburgh, a $2,600,000 class room building at the University of Pittsburgh; George B Cunningham, Washington, Pa., a $1,400,000 physical education building at the university; A. L. Weisenberg Associates, Allentown, a $500,000 addition and improvement to Shamokin State Hospital; Altman & Altman, of Uniontown, a $1,000,000 addition and improvement to Connellsville State Hospital; Harbison, Hough, Livingston & Larson, Philadelphia, a $4,000,000 undergraduate library and seminar at the University of Pennsylvania.

Nolan & Swinburne, Philadelphia, a $4,000,000 laboratory building at Temple University and a classroom structure, Davis, Poole & Sloan, Philadelphia, a $50,000 physical science building at Lincoln University; Thefy Engineering Co., Butler, a $75,000 gymnasium and field house at Slippery Rock State Teachers College; Johnson & Gray & Associates, Erie, a $75,000 dining hall and library at Edinboro State Teachers College; and McCormick & Segal, Philadelphia, and Lawrie & Green, Harrisburg, a $350,000 William Penn Memorial Museum at the state Capitol

The committee also recommended that the architect's fee for the $14,500,000 Haverford Mental Health Center planned in Delaware County not exceed 4½ per cent.

Royalty to Wed

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — The Grand Ducal Court has formally announced the engagement of Princess Marie - Adelaide, daughter of the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, to Silesian Prince Charles Joseph Henckel of Donnermarck The announcement Tuesday did not specify a date for the wedding, but court sources said it probably would take place in the spring of 195 in Luxembourg Cathedral Princess Marie-Adelaide, 33, is the second of the grand duchess' four daughters and the last to marry.

This is the third year the committee has functioned. It is composed of representatives of the Fayette City Fire Department, Lions Club, Fayette City Woman's Club, Cookstown Eagle of Eagles and Ladies Auxiliary, American Legion and Auxiliary to the Brightwell-Daugherty Post.

Attending the recent meeting were the chairman, LeRoy Gardner, Mrs. Richard Auther, Mrs George Troth, Mrs. Joseph Williams, George Bronder, Barbara Rade and Mrs. William McCready.

Furman Sees no Early Tax Cut

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Lt Gov. Roy E. Furman has warned Pennsylvanians against false hopes of a reduction in state taxes.

Furman, who has been mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year, said he could foresee no possible cuts in tax levies.

He spoke at a meeting of the Professional Affiliated Builders Association of the McKeesport district Monday night.

Mrs. Lakel to Head Drive Here For Polio Fund

Mrs. Charles Lakel has been named by the Fayette County Polio Board to head the 1958 drive in the Fayette City area.

She attended the kick-off dinner at Shady Side Inn, near Uniontown, on Sunday when the county chairman, Burton Tarr, was the speaker.

Tarr asked the chairmen and their workers to stress the continued need for giving to the fund to insure aid to those already suffering.

Mrs. Lakel has asked Mrs. Allison Roy to serve as her co-chairman and together they will name the committees for several special events as well as the annual mother's porch-light march.

Mother Asks Aid

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla (UP)—A grief - stricken mother Tuesday asked federal authorities to prosecute her 17-year-old son for stealing $5 from a letter in her mailbox. Mrs. Louise Bragg said her son, Jesse, is "incorrigible" and she feels legal punishment might help him.

Jimmy Didn't Get His Skates; But Was Hero

WINDSOR, Ont. (UP)—This is the story of four-year-old Jimmy Friest and the skates he wanted for Christmas.

Jimmy, who lives a mile east of Windsor, went downtown Tuesday and saw Santa Claus. He told Santa he wanted the skates so he could go ice skating with his sister.

Jimmy's sister, Carolyn, 9, was lucky. She already had ice skates. So when Carolyn went skating Tuesday on a little creek Jimmy tagged along.

Carolyn was on skates and little Jimmy was running along beside her. They strayed too far downstream to where a sewer outlet made the nearby ice thin and dangerous

Carolyn broke through into water about five feet deep. Jimmy heroically rushed to his sister's aid and started to pull her out. Witnesses said Jimmy had her by the hand and had pulled her halfway from the water when more ice broke and they both plunged in.

Three Children Die from Fire In Detroit Home

DETROIT (UP)— Three children died from a fire which broke out in a fashionable home on Detroit's northwest side early today.

Victims of the blaze were Abraham Charles Farris Jr., 13; his sister, Jessica, 10; and a brother, Michael, 8. Doctors at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital said efforts to revive the children failed and they died an hour after the fire.

The father, Abraham, 46, was awakened by smoke shortly after midnight. He carried one son, William, 5, downstairs but was unable to return for the other three children because of heavy smoke.

Firemen said the blaze appeared to have started in a library or living room on the first floor of the two-story brick home. Farris is the owner of a large Detroit furniture store. His wife, Mary, 45, was hospitalized.

LONG-RANGE WEATHER — Map locates Monahans, Tex., where Texas Tech scientists will seek information on weather as far back as 15,000 years ago. They will study Monahans dunes, a strip of sand about 30 miles wide and 100 long. Why here? Well, no rivers drain into the area, and consequently the archeologists will find only fossils of the immediate area. This will give them an archeological picture of the area back through the hundreds of centuries. The National Science foundation forked over $15,500 for first year of study.

Temperatures to Be Above Normal

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Weather Bureau predicts temperatures will be higher than normal for the next month over most of the nation east of the Rockies.

In its 30-day forecast, it said that the weather west of the Rockies should be generally colder.

The bureau also said snow and rain were expected to be above normal west of the Rockies and over the northern third of the nation.

It said precipitation should be below normal over the southern third of the country east of the Rockies and about normal for the rest of the nation.

Death Blame Fixed

LONDON (UP) — A coroner's jury has returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of a senior scientist who was killed at a British research station last Wednesday. The jury ruled Tuesday that Douglas Whittaker, 39, died of "primary metabolic failure" after a fire broke out in a small furnace at the Aldermaston Research Laboratories, 40 miles northwest of London. The jury said "there appears to be no evidence of any negligence."

Who Did She Say?

LONDON (UP)— A woman interviewed by a roving BBC television crew on a "seeing eye" program Monday night was asked who was representing Great Britain at the NATO conference in Paris. "President Eisenhower, I suppose," she said.

Some Changes In Little Rock In Few Months

(The writer of this story flew into Little Rock from Washington last September to cover a story that was making headlines. He has revisited the city and its Central High School to contrast the situation then and now. This is the first of three dispatches.)

By LOUIS CASSELS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — You can tell, as soon as you step off the plane, that things have changed in Little Rock.

A car parked at the airport entrance displays a jesting sign on its front bumper: "Refugee From Occupied Arkansas." The last time you arrived at this airport, on Sept. 24, no one was making jokes about military occupation.

That was the night when a long convoy of Army trucks rolled across the Arkansas River Bridge, bringing 1,000 paratroopers to take up battle stations around Central High School.

Little Rock was a frightened city that warm September evening. It had witnessed the animal fury of a mob in its streets. And it half expected a race riot to break out at any moment.

The cafes and pool halls on West Ninth St., in the Negro district, were deserted. Shades were drawn in living room windows. The handful of people abroad in the downtown business section took care to stay on brightly-lighted streets. They walked rapidly, as if they were in a hurry to get indoors.

A Festive Air

Now the old river port wears a festive air. The Harlem Grill and the Ninth St., Burger Bar are doing a brisk business. Christmas wreaths decorate the living room windows. Shoppers throng the downtown streets, and loudspeakers outside the department stores proclaim "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men."

The contrast is even more striking in the morning, when the children start to school.

On another Wednesday morning, 12 weeks ago, Central High School looked like a fortress under siege. A solid cordon of paratroopers surrounded the building. They stood at parade rest, five yards apart, with bare bayonets glistening on their rifles.

The 101st Airborne Division had erected barricades at the street intersections. Sullen, resentful crowds gathered on the sidewalks beyond these roadblocks. Blood was to be shed this day — not much, as it turned out, but enough to make an indelible stain on the pages of American history.

Difference In Arrivals

The nine Negro children who were enrolled in Central High by order of a federal court arrived at school that September morning —and for many mornings thereafter—in a green Army station wagon, convoyed fore and aft by jeep loads of troops. They were escorted into the building under heavy armed guard, through a crowd of white students who stood on the front steps, hooting and jeering.

Today the Negro children arrive, by two's and three's, in family cars driven by their parents. They get out at the curb and walk up to the entrance, attracting no special attention from the white boys and girls who are drifting in.

Strolling along the sidewalk are two soldiers in fatigue uniforms. Their shoulder patches identify them as members of he Arkansas National Guard, now under federal command. One carries an M-1 rifle, without bayonet. The other has a walkie - talkie radio. Around the corner is another two-man walking patrol, and on the far side of the building, another—six men in all.

Jeep Cruises About

A cruising jeep with two guardsmen in it completes the deployment of military force outside the building.

Newspapermen are not allowed inside Central High, but "book salesmen" are. You commit a small fraud on the authorities to get a first-hand look.

Central High is one of the largest public school buildings in the United States. It is five stories high and two blocks long. The corridors seem endless—and not easily policed.

You count one officer—a captain—and eight non-coms on corridor duty. They wear dress uniforms, and are un-armed.

Down in the basement, in a locker room which has been converted into a temporary barracks, there are about 30 other guardsmen who are off duty at the moment—but who are in easy calling distance. The rest of the 432 guardsmen who are still mobilized are a good half hour away, across the river at Camp Robinson.

Students Take Test

Central High has 2,000 students, and you have to peer into a good many classrooms before you find one that is "integrated." Finally you see a Negro boy sitting at a desk near the back of the room. The desks on either side of him are empty. All of the students are intent on something they are writing—apparently a test paper.

Next: The cold war in Central High.

'TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE'—The name of Dr. Ernest Stuhlinger (above) was brought into the hearing of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee when the group's counsel, Edwin Weisl, read a telegram from him. It said that the Army could have launched a satellite in the Fall of 1956 and that the missile program in general was a story of "too little, too late."

Monkey vs. Man

CHICAGO (UP)—J. J. Shaffer, the director of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty Society, explained Monday why he sent three men to capture a monkey loose in a felt factory. "You can't match one man against one monkey," Shaffer said. "The man will be outsmarted every time."

Campaign to Fluoridate Water Reports Small Gains in State

By ANTHONY R. CANNIFF

HARRISBURG (UP) — One out of every three persons in Pennsylvania now drinks fluoridated water.

The State Health Department campaign to fluoridate the state's water supply scored small gains during the last year, but is still meeting with some opposition.

Dr. Linwood Grace, head of the department's Dental Health Division, reported two additional communities began treating their water supplies with the chemical in 1957, bringing the total number of communities now served with the anti-tooth decay water to about 70, including Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Sewickley, in the suburban Pittsburgh area, began supplying the treated water to approximately 7,000 persons. In central Pennsylvania, a new installation at Carlisle began distribution to about 14,000.

Over the nation, 33 million persons are served with the treated water, three million more than this time last year. But Dr. Grace said minority opposition, in Pennsylvania particularly, is still a factor to be dealt with.

A major setback was experienced this year in Danville, a Montour County community with a population of approximately 7,000, where a proposal to treat the water supply was defeated in a local referendum.

Pure Water Group Active

Leading the fight against fluoridation in the Keystone State is the Pennsylvania Pure Water Association, headed by Lancaster dentist George J. Brett. The group charges that fluorine compounds, in sufficient quantities, are injurious to health.

However, at this month's meeting of the American Health Association in Philadelphia came a contradiction of the pure water group's charge that may decide many wavering communities in favor of fluoridation.

The AMA's Food and Nutrition Council and its Council on Drugs reported to the convention Dec. 7, after a year long study, that fluoridation is a "safe and practical" method of reducing tooth decay. They found that tooth decay among children who have used the treated water all their lives was 65 per cent less than among those using non-fluoridated water.

Cost of the treated water is estimated at about 10-cents per person a year. Under the present plan, the Health Department aids each community in setting up its program, and issues permits authorizing distribution of the water after the local board of health and the health and dental societies have approved. The chemical content of the treated water is about one part fluorine to a million parts water.

Bituminous Mine Inspectors Named

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader announced today the appointment of two bituminous mine inspectors to fill vacancies.

They were Frank Zalisnock, St. Benedict, Cambria County, who replaces George S. McCaa, Pittsburgh, who resigned; and William L. Groves, 320 N. Market St., Carmichaels, Greene County, replacing the late John V. McKenna of Waynesburg.

The principal head covering of Roman and Greek ladies was a veil, supplemented in cold or wet weather by a hood of linen or wool.

Human Being Has Many 'Drives' To Form Healthy, Normal Person

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — In drawing up a blueprint of the healthy, normal human being, Prof. Walter E. Barton of Boston University decided that all of us have the following "drives" in our makeups:

We have a "drive for action"—we want to "do things, to make things happen." And we have a "drive for superiority" which, if you look closely, can be seen also in hens, apes and cows.

Also there is a "drive for acquisition" — "people desire to have something of their very own, just as there are collectors of territory and shining objects among birds."

And a "drive for exploration," which is "a natural curiosity within all of us." Also a "drive for integrity." It is the "need to be a person, set apart from all others."

Three more "drives" he classified as "subsidiary tendencies" we all have. The "drive for security" has no goal but is "based on the anticipation that situations may arise that would interfere with the satisfaction of other needs."

Drive Fulfills Expectations

The "drive for orientation" is the "need to know where we stand." Finally there is the "drive for integration," which helps us to fulfill ourselves. We have "a need to do one's share in life or to live up to one's expectation of one's self."

Barton put down on his blueprint, in addition to "drives," a series of "needs." One is a "need" to be "a part of something larger than one's self." Another is for recognition and approval. The wish to be appreciated and recognized by others—we have "a desire to be loved."

Such "needs" as those for food, sex, avoidance of pain, and restful relief from fatigue he put down as "standard reactions" although he specified that they were "complex" ones. Finally there is the "need" which is vegetative. For instance, the "need for oxygen requires no conscious effort on the part of the person to satisfy."

In the "complex standard reactions" there is no pronounced variation from person to person. But among the "drives" there are all kinds of variations—some persons have more of one or more "drives" than others. The "drives" represent "needs" which grow out of the experiences of the individual, Barton said.

Blueprint for Mental Health

His blueprint has a very practical use. He drew it up for the guidance of mental health scientists in meeting the "needs" of mental hospital patients. The doctors who treat those patients are always taling about the importance of meeting their needs, but there has been no clear statement of what the basic human needs are.

Dr. Barton, who is associate professor of psychiatry at Boston, drew up his blueprint as a starter and it is being circulated in a technical journal of the American Psychiatric Association. Other scientists now will work on it point by point, and from the discussion may emerge a sharp picture of what makes the healthy human being tick.

Jewish Faith Plans Special Observance Here

Numerous activities have been planned by Kneseth Israel of Monessen and people of Jewish faith for the synagogue and individual homes in observance of Chanukah, "The Feast of Lights".

The observance began last evening and will continue for seven more days.

The holiday is being observed in synagogues and homes by means of a candle-lighting ceremony, recitation of special prayers and singing of hymns. Last night the first candle was lit in the Menorah, candelabrum. One candle is to be added each night.

The observance of Chanukah commemorates history's first struggle for religious freedom. The story is told in the Book of Maccabees dealing with the efforts of the Syrian Greek Monarch, Antiochus, to impose idol worship upon the Jews in the year 165 B. C. A priestly family raised the banner of resistance and after a long struggle the Syrians were expelled from the Holy Land.

At the special Chanukah Service, Friday evening, Rabbi Theodore Stampfer will speak on "What Chanukah Can Teach Us". Sunday morning a Chanukah program will be presented by pupils of the Religious School of Kneseth Israel at 10:30.

Negro Suspended At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—One of the "Little Rock nine" who integrated the city's Central High School under the protection of paratroopers last fall was suspended Tuesday for throwing a bowl of chili at a white boy.

The Negro, Minnie Jean Brown, was suspended for three days by School Superintendent Virgil T. Blossom. Blossom said the girl "heaved" the bowl of chili at one boy, hitting him directly and spattering it on another.

The girl, contacted at her home later in the day, said she was "jostled against a chair, which caused me to drop my tray of food."

Life Is Good For Former Red Prisoner

ANDERSON, Calif. (UP)—Life is going along "pretty good" these days for the Danny Schmidt family.

Schmidt came home Aug. 1, 1955, after spending three years in a Red China prison camp to find his wife, Una, had married Alford Fine, a logger, in the belief Schmidt was dead.

At first, Una said she preferred Fine. Two weeks later she changed her mind and returned to Danny along with their two-year-old son, Danny Jr.

Schmidt, contacted in Anderson, Calif., said everything was "pretty good, I guess" now. He said he was working the "straight swing" shift at a plywood plant and attending school at Shasta Junior College in the day-time.

He and Una are the parents of one more child. The boy, Christian Joseph, was born June.

No Wet Spots When Clothes Dry by Gas

"Oh, those clothes certainly should be dry by now," says the average housewife, as she lugs her empty basket out to the line. But often they'll still be wet in spots, and, unless she wants the messy job of spreading them around indoors, her trip has been just one more bit of wasted energy.

That can't happen with a gas dryer. It finishes its job in the appointed way, at the appointed time. Whether clothes are desired damp-dried for ironing, or fluff-dried for folding and putting away, there are no disappointments, even though the drying time is but a fraction of that required with old-fashioned methods.

Here are some of the reasons why the dryer user can't run into "wet spot" trouble:

1. The operation doesn't depend upon the weather at all. The moisture - absorbing ability of the warm air flow through the dryer isn't curtailed even by 100 per cent humidity conditions.

2. The dryer's drum's gentle tumbling action exposes every part of every garment to the thirsty warm air stream; there's no part to stay wet because it's hidden, or because water is draining to it.

3. Automatic dial settings are adjustable for whatever drying task is at hand. The user doesn't have to make long-range guesses as to when the job might get done.

Generosity Curtailed

COMPTON, Calif. (UP) — Tommy Perry, 4, got into the Christmas spirit a little too much, his mother thought today. Mrs. Perry had set aside $80 for Christmas presents. Tommy found it in her purse, went for a stroll and handed the bills to pals and passers-by, wishing all a "Merry Christmas."

African Tribal Chief Quits TV Quiz Embarrassed

NEW YORK (UP)—The 33-year-old son of an African tribal chieftain Tuesday night gave up a television quiz show opportunity to add $64,000 to his $64,000 winnings by answering one question because of "embarrassing" revelations about his two marriages and medical education.

Theophilus Adepoju Aderonmu, a Bible expert, settled for the money he won in previous appearances on the CBS-TV program, "The $64,000 Question," explaining "comment which I read in the newspapers" about his personal life made him too nervous to go on.

The Nigerian tribesman referred to the discovery:

—That he was secretly married April 30 in Chicago to Katherine McGreen and several weeks later offered to remarry his first wife, Fay, when she sued him for non-support.

—That the U. S. Immigration Service was "actively" investigating him for overstaying his student visa.

—That he flunked out of the University of Louisville Medical School two years ago without passing a course, did not attend classes for two years and is not a student at the University of Chicago as he claimed.

Aderonmu told the television audience he could use his $64,000 "to further my medical education" and was "very grateful for your kindness."

Mayflower in Florida

MIAMI (UP)—The Mayflower II, replica of the ship that brought the Pilgrims to this country, caused a traffic jam here Tuesday. Surprised motorists stopped their cars to watch the three-masted sailing ship as she entered Miami harbor for a three-month visit. A group of Seminole Indians was on hand to greet the vessel.

FLYING SPYING MACHINE — This is a model of a "Surveillance Drone" — an unmanned flying and spying machine — the first of its kind. The Republic SD-3 uses what the U. S. Army Signal Corps calls "advanced surveillance sensory devices." It is an allweather craft with three different, interchangeable nose units for switching from one "sensing system" to another — photography, radar or infrared. It can be launched without any run.

U. S. Farms Turn Out Bumper Crop in '57

WASHINGTON (UP) — American farms turned out a bumper crop in 1957 on the smallest total acreage planted or grown since 1919.

The Agriculture Department's year-end crop report Tuesday said the 1957 crop matched the record production of 1956 and 1948 and set an all-time yield per acre. The record yield was accomplished despite many local and sectional setbacks which delayed planting and slowed harvest of some crops to the latest stage in several years.

Stated in index form the 1957 crop joined those of 1956 and 1948 in reaching 106 per cent of the 1947-49 base. The overall yield per acre index covering 28 field and fruit crops reached 127 per cent of the 1947-49 base. This considerably surpassed the previous record of 124 per cent in 1956 and 118 per cent in 1955.

Feed grains and forage had a big year. The corn crop at 3,402,832,000 bushels was the third largest in history. It was only slightly smaller than the 3,455,283,000 bushels of 1956 and only moderately below the record 1948 crop.

Oats production was much larger than in 1956. Sorghum grain more than doubled any previous output. Hay tonnage was almost one-tenth larger than the 1955 record.

Wheat, the big bread grain crop, weighed in at 947,102,000 bushels, far below average.

New Veterans Administrator To Clear Way

WASHINGTON (UP)— The long-delayed appointment of a new veterans administrator appeared to have cleared the way today for an administration economy drive in the big veterans program.

G. Sumner Whittier, former lieutenant governor of Massachusetts and unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor last year, was named to the top Veterans Administration post late Tuesday by President Eisenhower.

He is expected to take office promptly under a recess appointment that is subject to Senate confirmation when Congress returns. He has not been a controversial figure and there was no immediate indication of any opposition to his confirmation.

Whittier parried questions about a reported White House decision to put the brakes on spending for veterans' benefits not linked with their military service.

Other sources said this probably will be his first big chore, one sure to arouse a storm of protest.

Whiter's elevation from the non-controversial post of VA insurance director followed a long search by the White House for a successor to Harvey V. Higley who quit the top VA post Nov. 13. Higley's decision to quit the job he held since 1953 was in reported protest to the projected economy drive.

Westinghouse In Plans for Banner Year

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The electrical manufacturing industry will continue its steady growth in 1958, and Westinghouse Electric Corp. expects to join in the upswing with another banner sales year, according to chairman and president Gwilym A. Price.

Westinghouse sales billed in 1957 will reach a new peak of approximately 2 billion dollars and are expected to be even higher in 1958, Price noted in a year end statement.

He said sales by the electrical manufacturing industry in 1958 will be bolstered by orders from electric utilities for heavy electrical generating equipment, as well as bookings for distribution equipment to support large quantities of generating equipment installed in the past three years.

Over-all, he added, the industry's backlog by the end of this year will be about 10 billion dollars.

The Westinghouse share of the heavy apparatus business, plus a substantial backlog will result in a moderate increase in sales of this equipment in 1958, Price said. However, he added, new orders for this equipment may be below 1957, the second best year in the company's history.

State Ban on Cigarette Sale To Be Enforced

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Revenue Department said today it will enforce regulations banning the sale of cigarettes below cost at either the retail or wholesale level. The department said copies of the regulations have been sent to every licensed cigarette wholesaler in the state.

Department Secretary Gerald A. Gleason said the rules "are designed to eliminate unfair competition in the sale of cigarettes." They establish a minimum price for both retailers and wholesalers as "basic invoice costs, plus the cost of doing business."

Revised price list will be issued periodically to guide sellers in establishing minimum retail prices, Gleason said. Violators face suspension or revocation of cigarette vender licenses.

Highways Dept. To Get Help of Safety Group

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Automotive Safety Foundation, Washington, has agreed to make a comprehensive study of problems facing the state Highways Department under current legislation.

Gov. George M. Leader said the foundation, a non-profit organization which does research aimed at providing efficient highway transportation, already has conducted a preliminary study of the department. Leader said the recommendations it makes after a research of current laws and policies will enable the department to revise its plans to meet greatly expanded highway requirements of the Commonwealth.

Personnel of the department will cooperate in all phases of the study and its results will go to the governor, the Legislature and the highway study committee of the Pennsylvania State Planning Board.

The latter committee was named by Leader to examine and analyse the department construction program. One of its first actions was to suggest that the state enlist the services of the safety foundation to do the technical work.

The foundation has conducted similar studies in 23 states and currently is making one in California. The Highways Department has agreed to pay costs of the project.

Wall Street Worries Over '58 Predictions

NEW YORK (UP)—Wall Street is getting a bit worried over the unanimity of the prognostications for 1958.

They parallel each other on such things as a downturn in the first half, a rise in the second, more government and state and local spending, and no tax cuts.

Each of the predictions so far has been based on what the experts consider is the outlook for more government, federal and municipal, spending. And all are predicated on no break from the cold war. And nearly all say there'll be no tax cut. Most say no tax rise either for individuals.

Keystone Custodian Funds today published its annual economic, business and financial outlook and gave estimates on the principal key business indicators.

Keystone said gross national product in the first half of 1958 will dip to 435 billion dollars on an annual rate, against 435.2 billion dollars in 1957. Personal spending is estimated to hold unchanged at 280 million dollars annual rate. Corporate profits are expected to dip 1.7 billion dollars on an annual rate and dividends are estimated to show a small increase.

The stock market, says Keystone, will be dependent on the progress made by the nation's industries.

The importance of the various stock groups on the basis of their market value is listed with petroleum and natural gas topping the list with 19.46 per cent of the value of all listed issues. Then come utilities with 16.17 per cent of value followed by chemical, 14.60 per cent; automotive, 7.52 per cent; steel & iron, 4.66 per cent; electrical equipment, 4.17 per cent; machinery & metals, 3.64 per cent, and retail trade, 3.33 per cent.

DAUGHTER OF SEN. KENNEDY BAPTIZED — Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston is giving his blessing to Caroline Bouvier Kennedy after the infant was baptized at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. The father, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is at left as the mother holds her daughter. The baby was born on November 27. Her godfather was the Senator's brother, Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the Senate committee investigating labor-management rackets.

Six Drivers Lose Licenses

Six district drivers had their licenses suspended during the week ending Nov. 8, it was announced today by the Bureau of Highway Safety. Fifteen others had their privileges restored.

Suspensions were given to the following:

Speeding, no defense submitted: Alba Kelley, Bentleyville R.D. 1; John Sala, New Eagle; George H. Baldwin Jr., Pricedale; Robert E. Tressler, 44 E. Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen.

Speeding: Charles D. Gillingham, Webster.

Passing school bus which had stopped on highway: Samuel R. Botton, Monongahela R.D. 2.

Restorations were made to Edwin L. O'Neil, 322 Delmont Ave., Belle Vernon; Leroy Tiernan, Fayette City R.D. 1; John W. Usher, Belle Vernon R.D. 3; John Davis, Hazel St., Bentleyville; William R. Ask Changes in State Insurance Practices

By JOE KIRKBRIDE

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General State Authority has been asked to transfer its estimated $340,000 annual insurance coverage bill from a private broker to a state department.

Internal Affairs Secretary Genevieve Blatt offered a resolution at the monthly meeting of the Commonwealth's building and borrowing agency Tuesday to have the insurance placed by the Property and Supplies Department. The resolution was sent to the authority's Insurance Committee for study and recommendation by next Jan. 16.

GSA insurance is placed by a Harrisburg firm managed by Joseph Danza, broker of record for the agency. Danza handles the estimated $690,000 in premiums paid by the Commonwealth each biennium and, in turn, allocates between $130,000 and $200,000 in commissions with various Pennsylvania insurance agents.

Danza, manager of the U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. branch, does not receive pay for the service. Senate President Pro Tempore M. Harvey Taylor, an agency board member, is an agent of the same insurance firm but has no formal connection with Danza.

Miss Blatt said the GSA insurance program was in need of "drastic change." She contended that a three month exchange of letters with A. J. Caruso, GSA executive director, had failed to shed any light on how insurance was placed, who received the commissions, or if the state was "getting the best deal possible."

Charges "Loose" Practices

"Apparently there are no records kept," Miss Blatt said. "This insurance practice is too loose and it ought to be stopped. We have been getting from Mr. Danza exactly what we paid him." and that is nothing. To my knowledge he has never tried and was never told to make an effort to reduce costs."

The identities of insurance agents sharing in the 20 to 30 per cent commissions have never been revealed by the authority.

Miss Blatt said the cost of insurance coverage on the numerous GSA projects and buildings would be reduced if handled by Property and Supplies. She backed up her argument with a second resolution calling for $10,000 deductible fire insurance coverage on GSA buildings.

Authority projects are now insured against fire for their full value. Gov. George M. Leader said the deductible insurance would save the state between $40,000 and $70,000 in premiums annually on fire protection.

Ben-Gurion to Toss Leftists To Appease Bonn

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion is so set on establishing diplomatic relations with West Germany he will throw the leftists out of his cabinet if necessary, informed sources said today.

Ben-Gurion averted an immediate cabinet crisis by backing down Tuesday on plans to send an emissary to negotiate diplomatic relations with Bonn.

The Prime Minister has favored this as a way to strengthen Israel's ties with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Left wingers claim it would endanger Israel's chances of promoting friendship with the Communist bloc.

Informed sources said Ben-Gurion plans to renew his campaign at the earliest opportunity and will, if necessary, oust the left-wing Mapam and Ahdutavoda parties from his coalition cabinet to achieve diplomatic relations with Bonn.

New Police Boss for Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House police force is getting a new chief—a sergeant who is being promoted to major.

The Secret Service said Ralph C. Stover, 46, will take over Jan. 1 as head of the 153-man guard detail around the Executive Mansion in an up-from-the-ranks promotion.

Stover will be raised from sergeant to major when he succeeds Maj. Hobard W. Francis who is retiring as chief at the end of the year because of a disability.

The promotion will mean an increase in pay for Stover from his present $5,936 base pay to $9,000 a year.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father, Harry R. Roley, who passed away 14 years ago today, December 18, 1943.
To your graveyard we often wander,
And picture your face so dear;
In silence we stand in sorrow
For the one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by his daughters, Gertrude Roley and Mrs. Mary Whetzel.

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Karl Sivek, who died one year ago, December 17, 1956.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Giustino Coccolone, who died one year ago today, December 18, 1956.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children.

U. S. Industrial Output Is Down

WASHINGTON (UP) — A forecast of continued high unemployment for the first six months of 1958 today was tacked on a government report that U.S. industrial output slid again during November for the third straight month.

Thirteen prominent economists in New York predicted the number of jobless would rise during the first half of next year to an average of 3,600,000. The Labor Department said last week there were nearly 3,200,000 unemployed at present.

The jobless forecast by the National Industrial Conference Board said for the last half of 1958 the unemployment would average 3,400,000.

Illegal Beer Traffic Hits West Virginia

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—State Police and Ohio County authorities have been asked by Ohio County beer dealers to put a halt to the illegal traffic of beer and whisky from nearby Ohio.

One beer dealer estimated today that some 10,000 cases of beer were brought into Ohio County during the past month. Two men were arrested last week in connection with the movement.

An Ohio County beer wholesaler said beer retailers in this area alone in the past 30 days have lost $40,000 in sales because of the illegal traffic.

The dealers first called upon State Beer Commissioner R. D. Platt to put a halt to the operations. Platt appealed to the Liquor Commission who in turn asked the State Department of Public Safety and Ohio County authorities to look into the matter.

One of the men arrested had six cases of beer in his possession, which was believed purchased in Ohio. The other man had four cases of beer and two fifths of whisky allegedly purchased in Ohio.

A case of beer can be bought in Ohio for $3.05 and $3.85 in West Virginia. Whiskey can also be purchased at a saving of 95 cents in Ohio.

Authorities said Ohio can sell alcoholic beverages cheaper than West Virginia can because the Mountain State has heavier taxes on the commodity and because of competition among the 16 breweries operating in Ohio.

It is illegal to bring more than one gallon of alcoholic beverages into West Virginia. Persons convicted are subject to $500 fine and confiscation of the vehicle carrying the beverages.

Social Security Offices to Open In the Nation

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Social Security Administration plans to open 25 new district offices throughout the country during the first three months of 1958, Commissioner Charles I. Schottland said today.

Schottland said many of the new offices will be located in agricultural areas to take care of farmers who recently obtained social security coverage. Some of the new offices will be in industrial areas that have had heavy population increases, Schottland said.

There are 558 district offices now in operation in continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Nearly 11 million persons now receive Social Security checks each month. The earnings of approximately 75 million people are reported for Social Security credits every year.

The 25 new district social security offices to be opened include: Defiance, Ohio; Dover, Del.; Findlay, Ohio; Indiana, Pa.; Marietta, Ohio; Newark, Ohio; New Philadelphia, Ohio and Oneonta, N.Y.

Shoes for Baby Are Important

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Maybe we human bings were better off when we didn't wear clothes.

Now I'm not advocating nudism, I just want to point out that the body is a near-perfect machine that will run smoothly if we don't interfere with it too much. In general, it just doesn't need artificial help to develop.

Ill-fitting and restrictive clothing actually causes harm, no matter what its protective benefit may be.

Take baby's shoes, for example. I have always recommended soft shoes for infants' shoes. And now there appears to be a growing tendency among pediatricians to recommend what they call "barefoot freedom" in baby footwear.

This was brought to my attention by an article, written by Mildred C. Martin, which appeared recently in an American Medical Association publication. The author had interviewed 175 doctors on the subject of foot care for youngsters.

Most of the doctors agreed that the best foot gear is that which permits a baby's foot to develop unhampered by restrictive shoes.

You don't put a perfectly good arm in a sling or bind a normal abdomen with a tight corset. So, why place a stiff, binding shoe on a baby's foot?

Nature intended the baby to rotate on his heels and grip with his toes when he begins to walk. He can't do it with a stiff sole in his way.

The proper shoes should follow the general shape of the foot, but should not be miniature copies of your own foot gear. They should not be "fitted" to the tiny foot. Rather, they should provide plenty of freedom for foot movement.

The heel of the shoe should fit snugly enough to prevent slipping, but the sole should be flat and the full length of the shoes.

The toes should be wide enough to allow the tot to spread and flex his toes at will. There should be no restrictive laces. A clasp, buckle or simple tie is preferable.

As I have mentioned previously, I advise shoes made of leather. The soles of the feet contain more sweat glands proportionately than any other part of the body. Leather permits the foot to "breathe."

You might keep this advice in mind when you do your Christmas shopping. The right kind of shoes would make a nice gift for baby.

Question and Answer

A.C.: Iodine in the radioactive form is being used to treat certain diseases. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: Radioactive iodine is being used to treat people with certain forms of goiter. It is also being used, with some success, in treating cancer of the thyroid gland.

The radish is of unknown origin, but came to America from the Old World. Its widest use is in the Orient.

From Hollywood—

Claims TV to Halt Language Accents

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Joseph Cotten has a theory that television will eliminate regional language accents and colloquialisms in this country within a generation or so.

"We'll all be talking the same language, so to speak," he ventured in a slight southern accent.

"TV is more effective than radio or movies in neutralizing accents because people spend more time with it."

Joe wasn't sounding off just to hear his own complicated lingo which includes the Bostonian broad "A", the New Yorker's habit of swallowing R's, and faint overtones of his native Virginia.

Used Variety of Dialects

The graying actor spent years in radio using a variety of dialects.

"In the early days of talking pictures I dubbed foreign films from France and Italy into English. We radio actors frequently dubbed four or five roles in a single film. I remember I once did 14 different parts.

"When the first English - made pictures played American theaters audiences made fun of them, talking back to the screen in exaggerated brittgargot," Joe said, slipping into a blighty pronunciation.

"So I got work translating dialogue from English to American."

He pointed out that few successful TV actors or emcees can be pegged as to their origins by their patois. Even local announcers are losing their drawls, twangs and brogues.

Joseph Cotten

"Most actors minimize their regional pronunciations, and it is definitely having an impact on viewers," he claims. "If an actor does have an accent it limits the types of roles he can play.

"Foreign accents are different, I suppose. But I can't imagine Charles Boyer playing a cowboy or a red cap."

Cotten doesn't cotton to dialects, but he refused to lose his broad "A".

"I simply cahnt say kant," he laughed.

He believes southerners from deep Mississippi conversing with rural Vermonters would have more trouble understanding one another than they would interpreting Russian.

"Gradually, and thanks in large part to TV, these differences are dying out. The Mid Western twang has all but disappeared," he says.

TV Review—

Gobel Is Not Same Anymore

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—George Gobel is a pretty puzzling customer.

It was only a few semesters back that the critics were tagging the funny little man with the fringe on top the comedy find of the year. Something has happened since then and this season, running in clumsy tandem with Eddie Fisher on an NBC-TV one-hour what-is-it, he no longer talks funny or even looks funny.

The general consensus seems to boil down to too much exposure. Gobel, say the chair jockeys, is suffering from the same malaise of so many other TV funnymen—he's been seen too often and we've become too familiar with his bag of tricks.

Maybe so. But I think Gobel's troubles stem from a different cause. I think there has been a change in the TV personality of George Gobel.

Gobel, the old Gobel, was an elfin spirit to whom things were done. He was a member of the great unwashed, one of us slobs, and we could sympathize and laugh with him. Too often on his current TV venture we are asked to laugh at him and his guests.

The channel swim...

Sid Caesar's kids threw out all his old slippers — guess what he's getting for Christmas. Ralph Story, emcee of "The $64,000 Challenge," is taking singing lessons. He'll unveil his tonsils on CBS-TV's Jimmy Dean show Dec. 28.

June Taylor and her dancers are set for seven more Pat Page outings on CBS-TV — James Starbuck will return as choreographer of the show after Miss Taylor completes her hitch. Jack Paar will take a two-week break from NBC-TV'S "Tonight" as of Jan. 20 with Jonathan Winters sitting in.

Dave Garroway hasn't been feeling too well the past couple of days. NBC says nothing serious. Jan Murray will throw open his Christmas Day "Treasure Hunt" show on NBC-TV to the kids of his crew members — he'll give 'em a shot at all the loot in those boxes.

Plan Exhibits For Science Fair At Penn State

Science students in Pennsylvania high schools were reminded today that it is not too early to plan their exhibits for the fifth annual Pennsylvania State Science Fair to be held at the Pennsylvania State University April 25 and 26.

Louis A. Legory, associate professor of chemistry who is chairman of the Penn State Science Fair committee, explains that students may enter projects in the areas of the biological sciences, physical sciences, engineering, mathematics, and the earth sciences.

The Fair is open to junior and senior high school students in both public and parochial schools throughout the State. Members of the science faculties at Penn State will be the judges and scholarships and other prizes will be awarded to students whose exhibits are judged winners.

Last May, Roger L. Feil, 18, of Salladasburg, a senior in Jersey Shore Area Joint High School, won the top Science Fair award, a $1,000 scholarship provided by Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. He exhibited a solenoid motor.

Ask Judge to Testify Before Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Senate Rackets Committee, ready to move into a new payoff case, hoped today to hear from a judge linked by testimony to a "fix."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee would not meet until this afternoon in hope that Hamilton County (Tenn.) Judge Raulston Schoolfield would accept the committee's invitation to appear.

The committee was told Tuesday there was "quite a bit of talk" that the Chattanooga judge was paid $18,500 to quash a labor violence indictment against 13 teamsters in 1951.

Kennedy said, without elaboration, that today's testimony should also prove to be "of interest" to the judge.

He said the committee planned to go into another case "in which some money was passed" when it resumes its hearings. Kennedy said the case is one in which H.L. Boling, secretary-treasurer of teamster local 515 in Chattanooga "has some information."

Judge Schoolfield was linked to the payoff Tuesday by Deputy Tennessee state Fire Marshal Raymond Hixson, who said there was "quite a bit of talk" the indictments had been quashed for a price.

Hixson said he was not surprised when the indictments were killed. He said Boling boasted to him that the case would never come to trial because "$18,500 had been passed" to fix it.

Hixson testified, however, that Boling never mentioned judge Schoolfield by name.

State Employes, Patients All to Get Inoculations

HARRISBURG (UP) — All patients and employes of state institutions under jurisdiction of the state Welfare Department will receive immunization against seven serious diseases.

Through the joint efforts of the Welfare and Health departments, workers and patients will be immunized against smallpox. diphtheria, tetanus, typhoid, influenza, polio and tuberculosis.

State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro said the program is the first of its kind in state institutions in the history of the Commonwealth. He said that because of its comprehensiveness, it will take some time to complete the program.

According to the schedule worked out by the department, all new patients admitted to state institutions will be given the immunization.

Pastor Glad to Be Scratched From Gift List

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Rev. Vernon C. Sherman today was scratched off one Yule gift list—and mighty thankful.

No matter what he gets this Christmas, chances are it won't match the green rubber frog he received stuffed with chewed tobacco. Or his (incomplete) set of fish bones.

Because a woman accused of being the pastor's Santa for these and other choice items has been arrested.

A grand jury indicted the 40-year-old housemaid Tuesday on charges of violating postal regulations in sending objectionable objects through the mails to Sherman.

Besides the stuffed frog and the fish bones, the postman delivered to Sherman last Christmas:

A set of false teeth, one shoe, some cockroaches both dead and alive, a wooden dancing doll, several small packages of garbage and one gren pill.

Why & Wherefore

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)—Michael Farren told a judge Tuesday he tried to saw his way out of the state penitentiary so he could complain to a judge about not having a lawyer when he was convicted of armed robbery last year. Although he had a lawyer this time, the judge sentenced him to two additional years imprisonment for attempted escape.

Crackdown on Dope Peddlers Is Gaining Support Across Nation

By UNITED PRESS

The state of Louisiana is contemplating death in the electric chair for an adult convicted of selling narcotics to any boy or girl under 21.

It marks the extreme to which authorities in some areas are ready to go to combat one of the most vicious criminal pursuits in the United States, a traffic which wrecks human lives by the thousands and breeds more crime.

A federal attorney told a recent hearing in New York City, itself branded the nation's capital for the narcotics trade, that outstanding jobs of combatting the narcotics racket had been accomplished in Louisiana and Ohio and in the cities of Baltimore, Seattle and Honolulu.

How It Was Done

The United Press queried its bureaus in those places to find out how it was done. Here is the report:

Louisiana already has a law, passed in 1956, providing imprisonment of not less than 30 nor more than 99 years for selling dope to juveniles. And more important—there can be no parole, probation or suspension of sentence!

A legislative committee headed by state Rep. Richard Bertrand is to consider new legislation changing the maximum penalty to death. There already are penalties of up to 50 years for selling narcotics to other adults and Gov. Earl Long has refused to reduce the sentence of any narcotics offender.

What Ohio Did

Ohio's Gov. C. William O'Neill wrote his state's "get tough" law in 1955 when he was attorney general. Before that northeastern Ohio had been pinpointed as the narcotics distribution center of the Midwest. There were an estimated 15,000 addicts in Ohio alone spending 75 million dollars a year for narcotics and costing the state 375 million dollars when they turned to crime to buy the drugs.

The new laws provide prison terms of 30 years to life for selling narcotics to minors and a minimum of 10 years for any first offense. Second offenders cannot receive probation. Ohio takes into account the record of narcotics convictions in other states.

At the end of the first year, narcotics violations were reduced by about 700 per cent.

Baltimore's Procedure

In Baltimore, Capt. Joseph Carroll, head of the city narcotics squad, attributes success to excellent cooperation from the federal narcotics bureau and the state courts which convicted 141 out of 144 arrested last year.

His squad needs no arrest warrant. It is even an offense to be caught with a syringe if there is a past record. Bail is very high and cases are heard quickly so defendants are "not left out on the streets three and four months to get money to defend themselves."

"Most cities forget addicts and concentrate on the peddlers," says Carroll. "We take the addict as well as the peddler off the street. Ninety-five per cent of your addiction is caused by association with other addicts."

'Deepfreeze' Game Has Penguin Problem

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (UP)— When the men on "Operation Deepfreeze" play football, the penguins are a problem.

"M" Division sailors from the icebreaker U.S.S. Glacier with the expedition here defeated the "S" Division team, 7-0, Monday in a pigskin game played on solid ice. The penguins held up the game many times by strutting onto the field.
